Weyerhaeuser Structurwood mill announces $10.5 million facility improvement projects

UPGRADING TECHNOLOGY--Workers remove the huge debarking drum from the Grayling Weyerhaeuser Structurwood plant, while a new and even larger debarker waits in the background to take its place.

The Weyerhaeuser Structurwood more than 200 Weyerhaeuser people mill in Grayling, recently conducted a 4-day mill shutdown to install $2 million worth of new equipment. A new drum debarker was installed to replace the old one, which had been running since startup of the mill in August of 1982. A section of the roof, planned and well executed, said Phil as well as a large section of the wall, Dennett, general manager. "We were removed so a crane could lift the completed an enormous amount of old 12-by-80-foot debarker out of it's work and we did it without a single frame to install the new one. In addition serious injury to anyone. This is a to improving the efficiency of bark credit to Structurwood members and removal from the logs, the new debarker is much quieter than the old one and has reduced noise levels by 50 percent.

In addition to the debarker replacement, preventative maintenance projects were completed. These new flakers will eliminate the need for people to have performed on the hot press to replace frequently handle the 33-inch pieces worn parts. During the 4-day shutdown of logs that are fed to the existing flakers. "The new flakers will be capable of processing logs in 100-inch lengths as they are purchased. What this means for our members is a less strenuous, much safer work environment which should eliminate back and muscle strains since the logs will be handled mechanically. The long-log flakers will also increase the volume of wood that can be processed through the woodroom," Dennett said.

In 1994, the Grayling mill produced the most product in North America on a single Oriented Strand Board line. "The addition of long-log flakers will enable us to continue to improve our productivity and efficiency while improving our safety performance. This is another long-term commitment by Weyerhaeuser, which will improve our process and keep us at the top of our industry in the future," Dennett concluded.

Want some good news? Croskey is out, Lira is in.

Crawford County Sheriff David Lovely announced Tuesday, that Michigan State Police Trooper Ronald Croskey has been released from University of Michigan Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Croskey is now convalescing from gunshot wounds he received on Tuesday, Sept. 14 in a shootout with Joseph Lira at the I-75 rest area near Frederic.

Croskey is expected to resume his duties at the Houghton Lake State Police Post after an extended period of recovery.

Joseph Lira has been released from Munson Hospital in Traverse City and is now lodged in the Crawford County Jail.

Lira will be tried on attempted murder charges.

Lowe fights loose purse strings of Michigan Strategic Fund

Concerned by the recent decision to fund infrastructure improvements near a proposed Tiger Stadium site in Detroit, a northern Michigan lawmaker is preparing a bill that would require the Michigan Strategic Fund Board to obtain legislative approval for all of its projects.

State Rep. Allen Lowe, R-Grayling, announced his plan after the Strategic Fund Board overwhelmingly approved a $55 million grant to buy land for the stadium, demolish buildings, repair roads and pay for environmental cleanup. The fund's revenues come from Indian casinos. Members on the autonomous board are appointed by the governor.

"Our priorities are misplaced. I cannot justify money for this project when our judicial system desperately needs additional resources," Lowe said. "The decision is even more troubling when considering how similar stadiums in other metropolitan areas have done little to improve the local economy."

"Constituents in my district have expressed their opposition to this move. I agree with them and want to prevent this from happening again."

Elizabeth Wieland retires as County Clerk

Friday, Sept. 29, 1995 has been proclaimed to be "Beth Wieland Day" in Grayling by Mayor Robert Golnick. That will be Wieland's last day serving residents of Crawford County in her position as County Clerk and Register of Deeds.

Wieland officially announced her retirement at the Crawford County Board of Commissioners meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 19.

Wieland has been the county clerk and register of deeds since Nov. 8, 1982. Before serving as county clerk, Wieland was the Grayling Township Clerk for 11 years.

Wieland said she looks forward to joining her husband Michael Wieland in retirement. Michael retired in May from the Crawford AuSable School District where he had been a teacher for 30 years.

"I loved it," said Wieland of her job with the county. "It's rewarding when you can help people. This is a real interesting job because there is a variety of tasks," said Wieland.

One of her favorite duties was organizing elections. All of the work planning the election and following it through is very exciting, she said.

A retirement party was held in her honor at the Knights of Columbus Hall on Thursday, Sept. 21. During the dinner, City Manager Jerry Mordor presented the proclamation, signed by Mayor Robert Golnick pronouncing Friday, Sept. 29 to be "Beth Wieland Day" in Grayling.

Wieland said she will continue to spend her time doing the sports she enjoys, including skiing, fishing and hunting. The Wieland's also plan to take advantage of their free time to visit their children, Joseph, Jean and Sheri and six grandchildren.

DNR/DEQ split will have little effect locally

By Jennifer Dahl
Capital News Service
Gov. John Engler's decision to break up the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) may sound good in Lansing, but how will it affect the people in Crawford County?

Rep. Allen Lowe, R-Crawford County, said it may be too soon to tell. But the effect of the order should not be great, he added.

"The DNR split is not going to be as bad as people make it out to be or as great as people have said it would be," Lowe said.

Lowe doubts the order will be contested by the House or Senate even though there are some who contend the split will be detrimental to the environment, recreational activities and tourism, he said.

Rep. Lynne Martinez, D-Lansing, has introduced a resolution to rescind Engler's decision. The resolution directs the House Conservation, Environmental and Great Lakes Committee and the Senate Natural Resources and Environmental Affairs Committee to hold public hearings.

Martinez is concerned the separation of environment and natural resources would no longer permit the balance between the environment and recreational activities that existed before.

"We should have public hearings to take care of various needs to protect our state for hunters, fishers and tourism," Martinez said. "Bottom line, legislation should protect the environment."

The DNR may have problems, but creating two new departments is not the answer, Martinez said. Reorganizing the DNR so that better communication exists would be a better idea, she added.

Lawmakers have 60 days to reject the executive order which creates two separate organizations: the Department of Natural Resources and the Department of Environmental Quality.

The new Department of Environmental Quality will be responsible for air quality, water quality, regulations covering wetlands, inland lakes, shore lands, submerged lands, soil erosion and dam safety.

DNR will continue to be responsible for fish, wildlife, parks, recreation, real estate and conservation law.

If lawmakers do not reject the decision to split DNR, the order will take effect Oct. 1, with Russell Harding as the new department's director-designate. Harding currently is DNR deputy director for environmental protection.

State Budget Director Mark Murray said Engler's decision is a good idea that will not cause major problems with the budget.

Murray said the only overlap in both departments would be land and water management and administration. The two new departments will share the $96.4 million budget that was allocated for the Department of Natural Resources for fiscal year 1996.

Despite criticism, Murray added, the DNR's budget continues to increase every year. The extra money for fiscal year 1995 was given to specific DNR agencies that needed the additional funding.

"We put extra money in the Department of Natural Resources to help continue our progress in bringing down permitting backlog," Murray said. "It's just good, basic government to get some of these backlogs down, so we can put a little money in those areas."

The new department will use computer technology to file permit applications and information, to eliminate the current permit backlog.

Commission adopts DNR restructuring plan

Department of Natural Resources Center in Roscommon. The plan was unanimously adopted.

(DNR) Director Roland Harmes, formally presented his proposal to abolish the DNR's regional boundaries and supervisory structure to the Natural Resources Commission (NRC) at its Thursday, Sept. 7 meeting held at the Ralph A. MacMullan Conference Harmes unveiled a new organizational chart illustrating divisions and functions, which will remain in the DNR, following full implementation of Executive Order 1995-18, creating a new Department of Natural Resources and a new Department of Environmental Quality. Charts also reflected elimination of the regional supervisory structure and a downsized Lansing executive office.

"Federal, state and local governments are being challenged with decreasing revenue and increasing public expectations," Harmes noted. "Legislative and citizen mandates are resulting in organizational flattening. The DNR is no exception."

"The streamlined structure provides a shorter chain of command and ensures a highly decentralized workforce, where nearly 85 percent of our personnel are deployed in the field," Harmes continued.

"Michigan must be a world-class mecca for tourism, jobs, hunting, fishing, trapping, wildlife viewing and all kinds of outdoors recreation. We will promote our hunting and fishing heritage, form new partnerships with volunteers to promote positive programs, and we will initiate a southeast Michigan strategy to promote urban recreation opportunities."

"I'm excited about the DNR returning to its roots of the former Conservation Department. We will continue to focus on traditional sportsmen and women, and we will be more sensitive to the interests of our younger generation. We will be ready for the future and continue to carry out our mission for current and future generations," Harmes concluded.

Project Graduation to meet Oct. 3

The first meeting for Project Graduation will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 3, at 7 p.m., at the high school, in room 100.

Any parents of high school students can feel free to attend. Any and all help that parents can offer would be appreciated.

Correction

The article regarding Sarah Weaver that appeared on the front page of last week's Avalanche referred to Mary Neal as organizer. Neal was one of many organizers, but was not the primary organizer of the fundraising. She was, however, the primary source for the story. Scott Hanson did much of the work organizing the event. The Avalanche did not intend to suggest that Neal was the primary organizer and we apologize for any confusion this may have caused.

Sibs make a new match in Crawford County

The Crawford-Roscommon Sibs For Kids program recently made a new match with Missy Boillard and Gretchen Reiser. Missy is currently in the 7th grade at Grayling Middle School and enjoys reading and swimming. She is also a member of the middle school band. Reiser is not a new face to the sibs program. She has been a member for about four years.

now, and is excited about her new match. Reiser works in the physical therapy field and is an avid athlete. The Sibs For Kids program is always in need of adult volunteers. KCC sponsors art competition

Matthew Holland, an assistant professor in the Department of Fine Arts and the Center for Creative Studies in Detroit, will judge an art competition at Kirtland Community College (KCC). The exhibit is being sponsored in cooperation with Jack Pine Journal, KCC's new community literary magazine.

The competition is open to all arts in any media. Three cash awards will be given for the best of show. KCC art instructor, Joe Donna, said that the college will exhibit the winning pieces at Kirtland's gallery from Nov. 3-30. An artist's reception will be held at Kirtland's Continuing Education Center on Friday, Nov. 10.

KCC President, Dr. Dorothy Franke, said that "We are delighted to sponsor an event which will showcase the talented artists in our area."

Artists may submit slides for up to three works, no later than Friday, Oct. 13. An application form and complete instructions can be obtained by calling Steven L. Berg at (517) 275-5121, ext. 394.

Thayers attend GOP conference

Mr. and Mrs. Art Thayer spent the weekend of Sept. 22-24 at the Michigan Republican Leadership conference at the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island. State Rep. and Mrs. Allen Lowe joined them on Saturday.

While there, they had the opportunity to meet and hear U.S. Speaker of the House Newt Gingrich, Michigan Governor John Engler and presidential hopefuls, Senators Bob Dole, Phil Gramm, Arlen Specter and California Governor Pete Wilson.

The attendance of over 1,900, broke the previous attendance record by 500. It was the 40th annual conference, which is held in late September of each odd-numbered year.

Duo pianists perform at Kirtland Oct. 7

Kirtland Center for the Performing Arts is proud to welcome duo pianists Landsberg & Yount at the Kirtland stage for two performances on Saturday, Oct. 7 at 2 and 8 p.m. This concert is event number five in the Summer Performing Artist series.

From Gershwin to Ellington, Bach to the Beatles, Landsberg & Yount's skill and sheer precision at twin pianos is enthralling. Critics say that "Landsberg & Yount combine virtuosity and wit in a performance as entertaining as it is impressive."

The evening will contain selections from some of the world's greatest composers including George Gershwin, Cole Porter, Richard Rogers, Leonard Bernstein, Andrew Lloyd Webber, Aram Khachaturian, Claude Debussy and others.

In addition to the Saturday performances, Landsberg & Yount will be offering a Master's Class discussing and demonstrating arranging at the piano on Friday, Oct. 6 at 1 p.m. in the Gilbert I. Stewart Auditorium on the campus of Kirtland Community College. This Master's Class is free of charge and open to the public. You may add your name to a reservation list by contacting the Kirtland Ticket Office.

ISSUES AND OPINIONS

EDITOR

Writer comments on commissioners' role in lawsuits

To the editor,
Just who is kidding whom? On Sunday, Sept. 10, the Traverse City newspaper had two front page stories, one that dealt with the $22 million lawsuit filed by CESW, and the other a libel suit filed by Crawford County Commissioner Robert McLachlan against three citizens.

It is obvious and appalling that Commissioner McLachlan has taken the role of judge, jury and executioner on behalf of CESW, that in my opinion, allowing him to maintain a seat on the county board, can only serve to the detriment of all the citizens of both counties.

If Commissioner McLachlan wants to continue to be a mouthpiece and pawn for CESW, then I strongly suggest that he pack up his things, get off the board of commissioners and let someone else, who cares, represent his district.

In my opinion, it is no small coincidence that Commissioner McLachlan would file a libel suit at the same time that CESW filed its suit, or the reasons why.

Volunteers are too important to lose over minor issues

To the editor,
Recent events at a Frederic Township meeting have prompted us to write this letter. Circumstances created by Michigan militia members who attended that meeting have caused Brian Hulbert, township supervisor, to tender his resignation from the Frederic Volunteer Fire Department. Thankfully the department has refused to accept his resignation.

These militia members are not, to our knowledge, residents of Crawford County, nor do they volunteer their time with any local fire department. We also believe that those people involved in inviting the militia to the meeting are not fire department volunteers. For some reason, these people raised a minor conflict of interest issue into a matter far out of proportion to its importance.

Hulbert cares about his community and the people in it, and the fact that he is an elected official should not stop him from being able to help his neighbors.

Speaking from personal experience, we know how busy the county fire and ambulance departments are, and how much time their members spend volunteering each year. The alarm tends to sound at the most inconvenient times, during meals, during parties, and especially in the late evenings. All members of the volunteer fire departments also spend many hours on their initial training, and with updating their training. This can wreak havoc with family life.

Few people volunteer and it is a shame to waste the talents of even one trained person. We wonder what would happen if the few men and women who donate time to the fire and ambulance departments, simply decided that it is too much trouble, too dangerous, and too time consuming to volunteer any more.

A challenge asks for random acts of kindness

To the editor,
On Sept. 14, this community experienced a random act of violence that seriously injured a state police trooper. The same random act of violence could have killed a sheriff's deputy. Over the next few weeks, I want to challenge everyone to do some sort of random act of kindness. It can be something done either anonymously or not. You could go grocery shopping for an elderly neighbor, or go into the bakery early in the morning and pay for coffee for the next ten people (asking the person at the counter to not reveal your identity). The list of ideas is endless. If you need some help with ideas, there are two books that may be helpful. They are Random Acts Of Kindness and More Random Acts Of Kindness, both by the editors of Conari Press. Good luck and have fun!

ALMANACK By Richard Milliman

When is a candidate not one?

PRESIDENT CLINTON recently undertook a multi-city jaunt that helped fill his campaign treasury—that is, if he decides to run for a second term in 1996.

Published reports indicate he raised more than $5 million at fund-raising dinners and receptions. At Denver, for example, where Air Force One was held up four hours by the season's first snow, the take was $1 million.

And so it went at city after city.

But, we have been assured, it was not all politics. The President mixed some business with the political pleasure at each stop along the way...meetings with local officials inspection of federal facilities, stuff like that. Thus it was an "official" trip as well as a campaign jaunt.

Which goes to show how tough it is to beat an incumbent—for President of the United States or for any office.

The incumbent is always a dual character. He/she is both office holder and candidate.

The distinction is blurred at best.

MR. CLINTON, of course, did not originate this practice of duality. It's been going on for a long time. But when does an officeholder act as an official, and when as a candidate? When is use of government assets for public purpose, and when is it strictly political?

One tactic is for a political committee to reimburse the government at least partly for use of Air Force One, somehow splitting mileage and expenses.

But could any other candidate but any other candidate rent it for her/his campaign transportation?

President Clinton made some headlines in Denver, criticizing the controversial Calvin Klein ad campaign showing young models in jeans and underwear.

But was that a presidential criticism, or a political one? The line of separation is dim.

WHEN MR. CLINTON winds up his presidential meetings or inspections in Dubuque or Keokuk and goes to the political rally, does he punch out as President and punch in a candidate?

Does he continue to draw presidential salary, or does he take vacation time?

Does he switch assistants from White House aides to campaign helpers?

Ah, the questions grow more complicated.

As noted above, Mr. Clinton did not invent this game, nor does he play it alone. It is the system which tilts the field toward the incumbent, not the particular individual then holding office.

While a specific incumbency is the most helpful advantage to a politician, holding any public office helps, too. The privilege of a public platform is the most obvious edge. There are others.

Mackinac Island almost sank into the Straits from the weight of Republicans at the GOP's late September leadership conference. Lots of those folks were on some sort of public payroll, federal, state or local.

At least three U.S. senators showed up—senators Robert Dole, Phil Gramm and Arlen Specter—because they're trying to get Mr. Clinton's job. Speaker Newt Gingrich—who could turn out to be the eventual GOP presidential nominee next year, but hasn't actually said he's a candidate—was there, too.

Were they on annual leave, or using accrued vacation time, or did they punch out when they left the Capitol in Washington?

SENATORS AND Speakers usually don't travel alone, especially presidential candidates. How abou their staffs: Were any of them on the public payroll while they attended the conference, or were they taking compensatory time, or transferred to the campaign payroll?

It's surprising how many congressional and senatorial staffers save their vacation time so they can work in their bosses' campaigns at reelection time.

Many of these vacation claims are flimsy, but in every election year, publicly paid staffers somehow turn up back in the district, in the thick of things political.

Politics permits its practitioners to rationalize and justify a duality of activity between public service and outright partisan work.

Is it right? Maybe. Is it legal? Usually.

And it sure gives any officeholder—especially an incumbent seeking reelection to the same job—a terrific advantage over the outsider.

FROM OUR CORNER

By Whitey Madsen

Answer to a critic...and other things...

I found it most interesting last week to read an article in the Roscommon Herald News by the editor of the paper in his personal column criticizing a story that appeared in the Avalanche.

It seems he took offense to the article concerning a self-proclaimed militia member that forced a closing of a Frederic Township meeting because he said it was an illegal meeting.

He began his column with..."A news article in a neighboring county's newspaper caught my attention and raised my ire recently."

Then he took out of context of the article which he wanted, and put it in his words—not what actually happened at the meeting he did not attend.

One particular point was he mentioned the militia person had no right because he was not a resident of Frederic Township, which is true but, he failed to mention there was one township president there that went along with the problem maker.

What follows in his column is what brought out my ire, not really the word I wish, but just to go along with the editor. We quote...

"Had he objected on the basis of being a township resident who didn't agree with the way the board acted, that would have been proper."

But to step in and say that, on behalf of this militia group, he declares the meeting illegal and demands the board to discontinue is ludicrous.

What was even more upsetting to me, as a journalist and fellow newspaper reporter, (and evidently a self-proclaimed critic), was the accreditation the local paper gave this individual.

He was given recognition as a commander of a division of the militia—an organization that has no basis in constitutional law or popular support.

As a patriotic citizen and former member of the world's finest Navy, the U.S. Navy, I personally find it offensive for legitimate journalists to give credence to this group."Unquote.

What planet did you come from...sir?

For your information, the author of the article, Linda Sherwood, is a graduate journalist, and a newspaperperson.

The story was a factual report of the meeting—we at the Avalanche do not inject personal opinions into news stories.

Personally, I was happy to read that you are a patriotic citizen and spent some time in the Navy. I too was a guest of Uncle Sam, only I dug fox holes instead of swabbing decks.

I also take offense at your insinuation that Ms. Sherwood is not a legitimate journalist because she referred to the militia...for your information, she covered the meeting the way a journalist should, state the facts.

Reading the Houghton Lake Resor each week, I find numerous problems evident in Roscommon County, such as recall elected officials, road ends, access to lakes, your road commissioners, etc. Possibly you may direct your energy towards your own county problems instead of criticizing another journalist in the neighboring county.

I'm not really ready to take up residence at Elmwood right now but, I would like to give those responsible for the trimming of all the trees and cleanup, a Tip of the Derby.

I realize it is hard to say, doesn't a cemetery look nice...so all I will add...it certainly doesn't look like the black forest that it did before the spruce up.

An idle thought—just today I noticed that we do not have a corner downtown titled Cedar and Michigan Ave. Now the Leprechaun will be dispensing his drugs on the corner of Michigan Ave. and N. James and S. James Street.

Time for some laughs from Joe Falls' Forum in The Detroit News.

• Rodney Dangerfield, New York comic, in his exhaustive search for respect: "My parents were so poor, they got married just for the rice."

• W.C. Fields, late movie star: "Blessed are the pure—for they shall inherit the earth."

• John Daly, free-wheeling pro golfer: "I prefer playing on illuminated golf courses because I like swinging nightclubs."

• Bob Reynolds, the erstwhile Man at the Mike, when asked who won the baseball strike: "Don't ask me, I'm as confused as a goat on Astro-Turf."

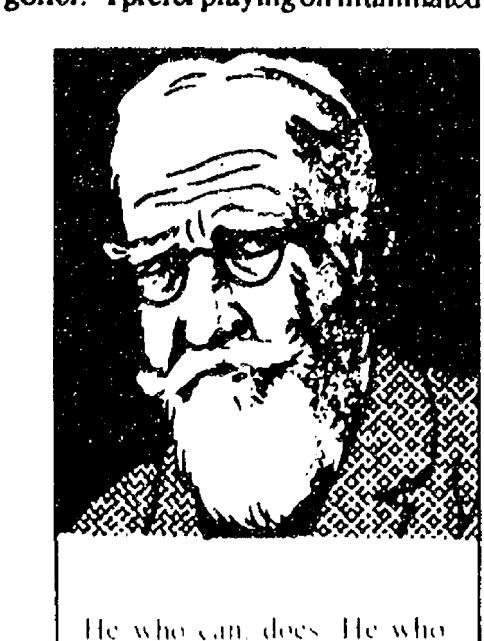

Anecdote Alley:

A minister was preaching on the evils of drinking. He said: "If I had all the liquor in the city, I'd pour it into the river. If I had all the liquor in the state, I'd also pour it into the river. And if I had all the liquor in the country, I would do the same thing."

Then to close his sermon, he asked his congregation if anyone had a suggestion for a final hymn.

A guy stood up in the back of the church and said: "No. 37—Shall We Gather at the River?"

'Nuf said for this time.

He who can, does. He who cannot, teaches.

ISSUES AND OPINIONS

JIM FITZGERALD

Impoliteness should meet bigotry, eventually

Last month I wrote about my dismay at overhearing at a baseball game, a father teach his young son how to be a racist. And several readers demanded to know why I didn't do more than just write about it.

Why the hell didn't I stick my liberal nose into the conversation and call the man a bigot for telling his little boy that certain people couldn't be trusted simply because of the color of their skin?

Why didn't I voice my disgust face-to-face with the racist, instead of cowardly suppressing it until I could get my fingers on a keyboard?

Well, there was a time when I would have risked getting my liberal nose punched. That was when I was young and still smarting from serving in a segregated army. I didn't mind disrupting cocktail parties by objecting loudly when some white Christian blamed the nation's problems on blacks or Jews.

Spreading the blame

The awful truth is I relished the argument that usually followed after I accused someone of insulting me by taking it for granted that, because I was white like him, I wouldn't object to his foul racist tongue.

My wife gradually persuaded me that I wasn't changing any minds, but I was ruining a lot of parties. So now I try to avoid social occasions where I'm liable to hear racist remarks, and when I do get caught within earshot of such obscene blather, I simply tighten my mouth and walk away, often to write about it another day.

Perhaps I should blame my job, as well as my wife, for my becoming the type of polite-no-matter-what guest that I used to disdain.

In that baseball crowd, it was a case of a white father and son playing poker for small change between innings, and when the boy ran out of money, but wanted to continue playing, his dad laughed and loudly said, "You want to play like a black man—no money in your pocket."

And I didn't say a word to the father about teaching vicious stereotyping to his son. I just wrote something indignant that the father undoubtedly didn't read. But I got paid for writing it.

A few graceful words

Racial stereotyping works more than one way, of course. Last year, Thomas Barrow, perennial losing candidate for Detroit mayor, told a Detroit News reporter that a less-than-truthful news media was partly to blame for a federal indictment accusing him of income tax evasion and bank fraud. Barrow, an African American, said:

"The media is bent on destroying any high-profile African American who's doing something. In their minds, I handle too much money for a 'Negro.'

That's a ridiculous charge. I've been a member of the media for over 40 years, and have noticed no industry-wide conspiracy—only the occasional individual writer—working against the success of black people or any other minority.

But if I'd overheard Barrow say that at a party, I would have said nothing to him, politely.

And this time, I'm also going to write nothing. Instead, I'll let Arthur Ashe, the late great tennis player and splendid black citizen, do it. In "Days of Grace," the marvelously insightful book Ashe wrote shortly before his death, he gave the following advice to his daughter, Camera. I hope Thomas Barrow reads it:

"You will hear of conspiracies against black people and the term 'genocide' loosely used. As much as you can, Camera, see people as humans and as individuals first...As a young boy, I was well aware that whites judged me not as an individual but according to what they believed about blacks in general. You must not do the same to others."

Onward and Upward, even politely.

YOUR SOCIAL SECURITY

By Charles Tinsley, Cadillac Social Security Representative

Double work, double Social Security protection

More and more, families are depending on two wage earners. This means they have two sources of benefits for the family. If either parent retires, dies, or becomes disabled, the spouse and children could be eligible for Social Security benefits. The monthly family maximum payment could be as much as 150 percent of the worker's benefit. For more information about benefits for families with young children who have a deceased or disabled parent, call Social Security's toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, and ask for the following publications: Survivors (Publication No. 05-10084), Disability (Publication No. 05-10029), or the factsheet Social Security Benefits For Children (Publication No. 05-10085).

GHS announces homecoming schedule

Homecoming at Grayling High School kicked off Monday, Sept. 25 with class competitions and spirit. This year's theme is musical groups. All classes are busy building floats and decorating windows and hallways.

The homecoming parade will start at 6 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 29, going from the Grayling Middle School, down Michigan Avenue, to the old football field.

The big game, pitting the Vikings against the Alcona Tigers, will start at 7:30 p.m. at the Grayling Youth Booster Club field at the fairgrounds.

On Saturday, Sept. 30, the homecoming dance will end the celebration. The dance will be in the GHS gymnasium, beginning at 9 p.m. and ending at 12:30 a.m.

Tickets for the dance are $5 per person and are available at the school all week.

Social Security benefits grow with you

Social Security benefits are structured to increase in several ways as you grow older. First, the earnings on which the benefits are based are indexed to reflect increases in average wages over your working life. Second, if you delay retirement past the normal retirement age—currently 65—the benefit you receive is increased 4 1/2 percent for each year you delay retirement, up to age 70. And third, once you start receiving benefits, they increase each year with increases in the cost of living.

Onward and Upward, even politely.

Peter Oppermann

Oppermann receives alumni scholarships

Five Ferris State University (FSU) students were recently selected to receive $1,000 Alumni Association Scholarships. Recipients include Peter Oppermann of Grayling, an optometry major.

The scholarships are awarded to recognize outstanding academic accomplishments and potential leadership qualities of students whose parents have attended FSU for at least a year. To qualify for the awards, students must have a 2.75 cumulative honor-point average for two semesters with a minimum of 40 hours passed.

Oppermann is a member of the American and Michigan Optometric Student Associations and a member of the FSU alpine ski team and intramural softball team. He also served as a volunteer for Optometric Service to Humanity. His mother, Mary, father, Ralph, brother, Ralph III, and aunt, Katherine Oppermann, are all Ferris alums.

Candidates also submit an essay explaining why they chose Ferris and their career goals, a letter from their parents and a recommendation from an FSU faculty or staff member.

Applications must be completed by May 1, and selections are made by June 15. Preference is given to students in their final year at Ferris.

October 1 begins 1996 State Park campsite reservations

If you think it is too early to plan a camping trip for next summer in a Michigan State Park, think again.

Campsite reservations for the 1996 season in Michigan State Parks will be accepted starting Sunday, Oct. 1. Interested campers can call 1-800-5432-YES between 8 a.m. and 11 p.m. on weekdays and 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekends.

"We are continuing our efforts to make planning a camping trip to a state park as convenient and simple as possible," Department of Natural Resources Parks and Recreation Division Chief O.J. Scherschmidt said.

To assure that the telephone reservation process goes quickly and smoothly, callers should be ready to provide the following information for each reservation: name, address, camping equipment type and size, Visa or Mastercard number and telephone number of a contact person.

Callers are encouraged to be patient during the first few days that reservations are accepted for the 1996 season. During this time, callers may encounter busy signals and periods of time on hold due to the initial heavy demand for campsite reservations.

Mail-in reservations postmarked on Sept. 30 or later, will be processed concurrently with telephone reservations. Requests arriving prior to Oct. 1, will be returned. To receive a reservation form, contact any state park or call the toll-free number, 1-800-5432-YES.

Instant title service offered in northern lower Michigan

Motorists no longer have to drive to Lansing to obtain an instant title to a vehicle, under changes announced recently by Secretary of State Candice S. Miller.

To enhance customer service in the area, the Gaylord branch office, 829 W. Main St., will provide instant title service. It is among eight branch offices across Michigan now offering the instant title service.

This service is available for new vehicles, used vehicles with a Michigan title and watercraft. The branch office will also provide instant duplicate titles for lost Michigan titles.

"I have been surprised by the inconvenience of some critical services provided by the Secretary of State's office, such as the instant title service," Secretary Miller said. "In the past, the instant title service was only offered in Lansing as a way to discourage potential abuses.

"In the end, this limitation only served to inconvenience hard-working taxpayers who have a legitimate reason for obtaining an instant title," Secretary Miller added.

Before today, someone seeking an instant title to their car or boat had to drive to Lansing for same-day service, making it difficult for those in northern lower Michigan to conveniently obtain an instant title.

To obtain an instant duplicate title, a customer must present the registration to the automobile and proper identification. The title fee is $11, plus a five dollar instant-title fee.

Customers transferring a title, will need the existing Michigan title assigned to them, with the owner or owner's signature. Along with the $11 title fee and five dollar instant-title fee, the new owner will have to pay the 6-percent use tax on the sale of the vehicle.

THE GARDEN CORNER

A service of the Crawford County MSU Extension Office

Question: I'd like to plant some spring-flowered bulbs around my house this fall. Are there any guidelines for using bulbs in the landscape that I should know about?

Answer: Because spring-flowering bulbs are usually the first blossoms of spring, they draw the eye, so you might want to use them to accentuate the best features of your landscape. Planting in masses of one color generally produces a more impressive display than planting mixtures of colors, and planting in clusters rather than regimented rows gives a more natural effect. Plant in well-drained soil, and avoid areas near a heated basement or other source of warmth that could interfere with the cold period the bulbs need to flower.

Question: How do I store dahlias and glads for the winter?

Answer: Cut dahlia tops off at ground level a few days after the first frost. Dig tubers carefully and dry them upside-down for a few hours. Store in a slightly moist packing material at temperatures of 40 to 45 degrees. Dusting before storing with an all-purpose garden dust will protect corms against insects and fungi. Check stored corms occasionally and discard any showing signs of deterioration.

Question: What are those fat, stupid flies that come indoors in the fall?

Answer: They're cluster flies, and they overwinter in large masses in attics, sheds, barns and other out-of-the-way areas. As the weather cools off, they get sluggish and buzz annoyingly against windows and around lights at night. One or two sprays of a pyrethrin-type flying insect spray labeled for use indoors and an application of the vacuum cleaner may take care of the entire problem.

Question: Last fall, I had what I considered to be large numbers of snakes in my backyard in the fall. All of a sudden they disappeared. Where did they go?

Answer: Snakes in search of a place to hibernate over the winter often turn up in large numbers in rural backyards in autumn. Quite often, their winter quarters are in cavities alongside rough stone foundations. Between mid-September and mid-October, they usually "disappear" into these underground cavities. Occasionally, one will blunder into a basement during a midwinter thaw, or on its way out of hibernation in the spring, when they may again be present in relatively large numbers for a short time. Most snakes in Michigan are harmless and even beneficial in that they eat mice and insects, so there's no reason to kill them and every reason to preserve them.

Bazzett joins GHS business department

By Nancy Lemmen

Ferris State University graduate Terri Bazzett joined the Grayling High School business department this fall to teach business service technology (BST), Business Technology and Advanced Business Technology.

At Ferris, Bazzett earned a bachelor of science degree in business education with a major in office administration and minors in business and English.

She also earned a master of science degree from FSU in career and technical education while maintaining a grade point average of 4.0.

Before coming to GHS, Bazzett taught typing and records management to special needs students and secretarial science at Lewis College of Business Community College in Detroit for three and a half years.

Her family includes three daughters: Tara, a freshman studying elementary education at FSU; Krystan, a freshman at GHS; and Megan, a 4th grader at Grayling Elementary School.

In her off hours, she enjoys writing fiction and non-fiction, reading, crocheting and swimming.

"The atmosphere is superb (at Grayling High School) and there is much room for personal and professional growth," said Bazzett. "It will be a pleasure and a challenge to work with Kirstie Race to build and maintain a strong BST program."

She said her goal is to "provide my students with a quality business education and hopefully foster a desire for further learning. Learning is a lifetime commitment for me, and I would like to encourage that in my students."

"We look forward to living and working in the Grayling community and have already enjoyed meeting some wonderful people here," said Bazzett. "Everyone has been very helpful and encouraging. The students are great."

Michigan fights federal mandate on voter registration

By Jennifer Dahl

Capital News Service

Secretary of State Candice Miller wants to increase technology in branch offices across Michigan and make customer service a top priority.

But she resents a push by the federal government to increase voter registration because the state pioneered a program in conjunction with motorist licensing, registering 90 percent of voting population.

The National Voter Registration Act of 1993, also known as "Motor Voter," requires that states provide voter registration forms at motor vehicle registration locations, other state agencies and through the mail.

Gov. John Engler signed the bill last January to implement the federal requirements, but vowed that Michigan would not implement any of them until the federal government provided funding.

The act led to a lawsuit filed by the U.S. Justice Department charging that Michigan was violating Motor Voter. The violation was a result of Michigan's failure to provide voter registration in state agencies, such as the Department of Social Services.

Miller cites politics as the reason the lawsuit was filed. According to Miller, more than 90 percent of eligible Michigan residents are registered to vote. In Crawford County alone, more than 8,800 people are registered.

Some of Miller's concerns are the added paperwork that would be imposed on social service employees if Michigan lost the lawsuit and the fear that recipients would have if they did not register to vote every time they went in.

Miller said people who receive food stamps, for example, would be asked each month if they want to register to vote. If they decline, they would have to sign a statement every month stating they do not want to register to vote.

Miller said many people might think if they do not register to vote, they will not get their food stamps, and that is not true.

Michigan was the first state to issue voter registration in Secretary of State branch offices. The law was passed in 1978, and took effect in 1979.

Secretary of State communications director Elizabeth Boyd said that Michigan residents do not need to wait until their vehicle registration is due to register to vote. They can come in at any time to register to vote, she said.

Boyd said that Secretary of State offices have registered more than 13 million people since the program began 20 years ago.

We believe we have accomplished voter registration, Boyd said.

The lawsuit represents the latest confrontation in the escalating fight between states and the federal government over who is responsible for paying federally mandated programs.

The U.S. Justice Department, the American Civil Liberties Union and ACORN, a coalition of neighborhood organizations, filed separate lawsuits that have now been combined into one lawsuit, Boyd said.

Federal judge Douglas Hillman, of the western district of Michigan, will hold a hearing on Nov. 30, in Grand Rapids.

Chris DeWitt, director of communications for the attorney general, said he did not want to speculate on the outcome of the Motor Voter case.

Twelve states have been sued by the U.S. Justice Department and six have lost.

Miller will be at the Grayling Secretary of State's office on Friday, Sept. 29, to visit customers and answer questions about the future of the Department of State.

The Bible Speaks

From the Calvary
Baptist Church

Moderns or Modernists?

There is a vast difference between religious modernists and moderns. Modernists are a religious term for liberal ministers who believe false scientific theory which undermines and destroys faith in the God of the Bible. Such leaders try to hide their rejection of such beliefs as divine creation, the final authority of the Bible, the deity of Jesus Christ, His miracles, and His bodily resurrection from the dead. They still go by the name Christians, while abandoning the faith once delivered to the saints. (Jude 3). Their greatest fear is the public exposure of their unbelief, and their identity as false apostates or ministers of Satan. "And no marvel; for Satan himself is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness..." (2 Corinthians 11:14, 15).

Most Christians today would accept the title moderns, but not modernists. Most moderns believe in the God of the Bible, yet enjoy the advantages of modern transportation, communication, labor saving tools and appliances, medical technology, and other modern inventions. Where there is an apparent conflict between the Bible and modern science, the moderns trust God, while the modernists trust science. For example, moderns believe in divine creation, but modernists believe in naturalistic evolution. There is no conflict between true science and the Bible.

There are religious groups like the Amish who claim to be neither moderns or modernists. They believe it is wrong to own electric tools and appliances, cars, telephones, modern clothes, and other modern things. This article is not written to criticize them, but we believe the sensible use of such scientific invention is not wrong. Some religious groups have long lists of man-made do's and don'ts to improve their piety. We at Calvary Baptist Church believe the Bible alone is a sufficient standard to live by without other man-made rules. If every Christian would obey the Bible under the leading of the Holy Spirit, man-made rules would only hinder their spiritual progress.

God gives us all things to use joyfully for our good and His glory. "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, and cometh down from the Father..." (James 1:17a) "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy." (1 Timothy 6:17) "And they that use this world, as not abusing it; for the fashion of this world passeth away." (1 Corinthians 7:31) We praise God for all good things!

Strong Families/Safe Children initiative begins in Crawford County

Crawford County is expected to receive $227,000 in federal funding over the next two years under the Strong Families/Safe Children initiative. The county is one of 28 counties selected to participate in this initiative, which when implemented, will see significant changes in the way in which business is conducted affecting families at the local level.

Robert Porter, director of Crawford County Department of Social Services and chair of the Directors Committee of the Strong Families/Safe Children initiative stated, "We are committed to the decrease of child abuse, neglect and family violence as well as decreasing unnecessary out-of-home placements by providing services to keep children safe in their own homes whenever possible. How we can build on existing local efforts, through increased coordination and cooperation among agencies, as well as public/private partnerships, remains to be seen. But, I am certain the end result of our efforts will be a restructuring of the delivery of services in this country, a system that will be consumer driven and one that will reflect solutions built upon family strengths."

Also to be targeted by this 5-year undertaking will be children who lack proper immunizations and senior citizens raising their grandchildren who need community-based services.

Thomas Haskel, Crawford County Probate Court juvenile officer was elected chairperson of the Family Coordinating Council Executive Committee, a steering committee working on the Crawford County

Strong Families/Safe Children initiative. Haskel issued a call recently for individuals throughout the county to step forward and become active members of Family Coordinating Council. Haskel said he is particularly interested in seeking those who work in academic settings, religious leaders, representatives of charitable organizations, advocacy groups, senior citizen agencies, and law enforcement agencies.

Of particular interest to Haskel are those persons who, as consumers, have had experience with community services related to foster care, adoptions, anti-domestic violence programs and health-promotion initiatives.

The Family Coordinating Council of the Strong Families/Safe Children initiative will hold their formation meeting on Friday, Sept. 29 at 9 a.m. at the Grayling Holiday Inn, Birch Room. Persons interested in attending should contact the Crawford County Probate Court at 348-2841, or Crawford County Dept. of Social Services at 348-7691.

Church Directory

A child is so fresh...unsoiled by the spoils of society and untouched by dirty fingers of defeat...with a smile as bright as the morning sun and the peaceful sleep of a pure heart.

Yet, as life progresses, we pick up soil and smudges and smiles sometimes dull. The wrinkles in our skin may mirror a ruffled spirit and sleep does not come so easily anymore. Yes...it is time to do our laundry!

Actually, our "laundry" should be done at least weekly, for once soil is "set in" it is all the more difficult to remove. Each week we have an opportunity to refresh our bodies and renew our spirit as we enter God's sanctuary. Experience the cleansing of your soul as the sanctified Word of God washes away anxiety and fear. In John 15:3, we read..."Now ye are clean through the Word which I have spoken unto you."

Worship this week. Begin afresh with God.

OBITUARIES

Martha Burke

Martha J. Burke, 92, of Frederic, died Sunday, Sept. 24, 1995, at Hilltop Manor in Roscommon. Funeral services were held Tuesday, Sept. 26, at 4 p.m., at Sorenson Funeral Home, McEvers Chapel, with Reverend Robert Taylor officiating. Burial was in Oakwood Cemetery, Frederic.

Mrs. Burke was born April 18, 1903, in Covington. She had been a resident of Frederic since 1962, previously living in Saginaw. She owned and operated Burke's Restaurant from 1951 to 1973.

Mrs. Burke was preceded in death by her husband, Oscar, in 1969; daughter, June Kleineke; granddaughter, Susan Joseph; sisters, Anna Keranen, Esther Bluhm, Jenny Leinonen, Hilda Johnson and Elsie Godsey; brother, William Leinonen; and parents, Jacob and Anna (Haapasalo) Leinonen.

Survivors include: son, William Burke of Bear Lake, Kalkaska County; daughter, Karen and husband Jack Dunlow of Frederic; sister, Selma Kyro of Sacramento, California; eight grandchildren; and seven great grandchildren.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the National SIDS Foundation.

Jason Howe

Jason Scott Howe, 3-month-old son of Scott and Melissa Howe of Grayling, died Friday, Sept. 22, 1995, at Mercy Hospital. Funeral services will be held Wednesday, Sept. 27, at 11 a.m., at Sorenson Funeral Home, McEvers Chapel, with Priest Carol Stephan and Elder Lacey Stephan, Jr., officiating. Burial will be in Elmwood Cemetery, Grayling.

Jason was born June 18, 1995, in Grayling.

Survivors include: parents, Scott and Melissa (Jackson) Howe of Grayling; sisters, Stephani Jackson and Tiffany Howe, both at home; grandparents, Dianne and David Jackson, Nancy Howe and John Howe, Jr., all of Grayling; great-grandparents, Stanley Cwiklinski and late wife, Mary Ann, of Birch Run; Paula Jackson and late husband, Kenneth, of Grayling; Louise and John Howe, Sr., of Grayling, and Norman "Bud" and Dorothy Stephan of Grayling; and many aunts, uncles and cousins.

The family suggests memorial contributions to the National SIDS Foundation.

Choosing a home-care provider is the patient's choice

With greater emphasis on rights and responsibilities, medical patients today are encouraged to share in the decision making process for their health care. Patients' rights and responsibilities go hand in hand, therefore, patient choices should be inclusive.

Consider Mrs. Smith, a post-operative patient about to be discharged from the hospital. Her physician has ordered continuing care after she returns home. The hospital discharge team will assist in identifying Mrs. Smith's health needs and provide her with a list of several agencies. This patient has a preference for who will continue her care and selects the agency of her choice while working with her physician and other members of the health care team during her recovery at home.

Another patient described his experience, saying he traveled out of the area to receive some of his health care and upon discharge, a home-health agency had been selected for him. "I told them I had a previous experience with another agency and was happy with them. My daughter finally called the agency I wanted."

Other individuals who are not as familiar with their right to choose require sufficient information that is available and understandable to assist them in making informed and wise choices.

One Amicare field nurse stated that on recent occasions, she has entered homes for the first time and discovered that the patient or family preferred another agency. Now she will confirm the patient's choice and connect the patient with the other agency that they are familiar with. "It's a matter of common courtesy," she said. "Patient choice as to what home-care provider they wish to have needs to be acknowledged."

Today, physicians in health-care management including other health-care providers desire the best outcome for their patients. Studies show that no matter what the care setting, whether it be hospital, outpatient clinic or nursing facility, patients usually benefit when they participate in their health care decisions. Especially for those who are restricted, chronically ill or unable to care for themselves, making choices about their healthcare gives them the ability to express a greater sense of control over their lives.

Patient choice is a means of contributing to more effective patient care and greater satisfaction for the patient.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED—Becky and Mike Lee of Grayling, would like to announce the engagement of their son, Ken Elliott, to Paula Barrón Pérez of Tampico, Mexico. An Oct. 14 wedding is planned in Brownsville, TX. A traditional Mexican fiesta will follow the wedding, in Matamoros, Mexico. Mr. Elliott is in the U.S. Army, and is currently stationed in Fort Hood, TX.

Adult enrichment classes announced

The Adult Alternative and Community Education program announces the fall schedule for the Enrichment Evening Classes.

Classes for Dried Flower Arranging and Beginning Stained Glass are scheduled to begin on Tuesday, Oct. 3. Dried Flower Arranging is being offered in conjunction with Flowers by Josie. The 8-week course will consist of three sessions, with each session designed to create an unique and permanent keepsake. During the course of the class in Beginning Stained Glass, every student will make several pieces. By the end of the class, students will know and understand the basics of cutting, grinding, foiling and soldering stained glass.

Several classes are being offered beginning Wednesday, Oct. 4 including Western Line Dancing, Oil Painting and Advanced Stain Glass. Western Line Dancing offers students a chance to learn the latest steps involved in line dancing. Students are encouraged to dress up in western style. Students will learn the basic concepts, such as color wheel shading techniques in the Oil Painting class. Advanced students will find a relaxed atmosphere for individual painting. For students who have already taken Beginning Stained Glass, an advanced course is also offered.

Beginning Monday, Oct. 21, classes in Beginning Genealogy and Woodshop are being offered. The Beginning Genealogy class will be a basic guide to the novice researcher. Topics will include where to start, how to retrieve vital records, church records and probate records. Students can start work on a special Christmas project or other wood projects when they enroll in the Woodshop class.

Question: I am a senior citizen who has been wondering about flu shots. Also, what is the difference between a bad cold and the flu?

Answer: This is a good question since the flu season is fast approaching. The cold season lasts from early fall through spring, while the flu usually strikes in epidemics around January or February (or earlier).

Symptoms of colds and flu are similar. Both of these maladies cause nasal congestion, watery eyes, sore throats, and coughs. However, flu symptoms are more severe and last longer. The flu sufferer may also run a high temperature, while the person with a cold may be feverless or only mildly affected.

A flu vaccine is available to prevent or minimize the severity of flu. The vaccine should be administered early in the flu season to people in the high-risk group:

- Persons 65 years of age or older;
- Residents of nursing homes and other medical facilities, regardless of age;
- Adults and children with chronic disorders of the pulmonary or cardiovascular systems;

Adults and children who have required medical follow-up during the preceding year because of chronic metabolic diseases, including diabetes mellitus;

• Children and teenagers who are receiving long-term aspirin therapy, who may be at risk for developing Reye's syndrome after influenza;

• Or anyone suffering with a disease that lowers the body's ability to fight infection.

The incidence of serious complication, including death, is much higher with the flu than with the common cold. In an average flu season, between 8,000-17,000 people die. Most of these victims are elderly. Because these influenza strains vary from year to year, a new flu shot is recommended annually to protect completely.

In October, the health department will schedule flu clinics in each of the county offices. These clinics are announced in the local newspaper several weeks in advance. For more information on flu shots, ask your family physician or call the health department office in your county.

Follies meeting rescheduled

Due to the poor attendance at the previously scheduled Milltown Follies annual meeting, it has been rescheduled for Thursday, Oct. 5, at 11 a.m., at the Commission on Aging.

FOOT NOTES

by Ronald K. Olm, D.P.M.

What is a podiatrist to do?

In some people's minds, a podiatrist is the person to go to for foot surgery - removing warts, fixing ingrown nails, and such. In fact, a podiatrist works with a variety of treatments, of which, surgery is just one. To ease pain or help healing, a podiatrist may offer physical therapies such as massage, whirlpool, heat or cold, or ultrasound. Casting or splinting may be used to immobilize an injury. Medications may be ordered to treat infections, pain, or inflammation. Custom-made shoes or inserts, called orthotics, may be prescribed to enhance comfort and mobility. Corns and calluses may be trimmed to relieve pressure, and even routine foot care such as nail trimming can be a lifesaver.

When you first visit our offices, we'll discuss your medical history as well as conduct a physical exam and diagnostic tests to determine your foot problem. Once a diagnosis is made, we'll develop a treatment plan designed to relieve your discomfort or correct the problem. We'll also give you helpful tips for avoiding foot problems in the future. We offer a wide range of modern podiatric treatments and procedures at GRAND TRAVERSE FOOT & ANKLE CENTER, P.C., 1209 E. 8th St., Traverse City. Offices in Traverse City, also at KALKASKA MEMORIAL HEALTH CENTER, Monday & Wednesday afternoons and evenings. Phone at 922-9100 and 1-800-968-7440.

P.S. When surgery is necessary, it is often done on an out-patient basis, with the patient walking away from the procedure.

NOTICE OF MORTGAGE FORECLOSURE BY SALE

Default having been made in the conditions of a certain Promissory Note and Mortgage made on the 10th day of August, 1988, by Edward Sexton and Louise Lowe, joint tenants, as mortgagors, to the United States of America, Farmers Home Administration, Department of Agriculture as Lender said Mortgage being recorded at Liber 285, Pages 48-51 in the office of the Register of Deeds for Crawford County, Michigan;

With regard to the above-referenced note, there is claim to be due and unpaid at the date of this Notice the sum of Forty-Three Thousand Six Hundred Fifty-Five Dollars and Eighty-Nine Cents ($43,655.89), plus other allowable costs including reasonable attorney fees, real property taxes and insurance;

Further, no suit or proceeding at law or in equity having been instituted to recover the debt or any part of the debt, secured by said mortgage and the power of sale being contained in said mortgage having become operative by reason of such default;

NOW THEREFORE, notice is hereby given that on the 19th day of October, 1995 at 10:00 in the forenoon at the main front door of the Crawford County Courthouse, Grayling,

Michigan, that being the place for holding the Circuit Court for said County, there will be offered for sale and sold to the highest bidder at public sale, for the purpose of satisfying the amounts due and unpaid on said promissory notes with interest thereon at the rate of Nine and One-Half (9 1/2%) Percent, together with legal costs and charges of sale, provided by law and in said promissory notes, mortgages and assumption of mortgage. The land and the premises described in said mortgages are located in the State of Michigan, County of Crawford, and further described as follows:

Lot 7, CLOUGH'S HIGHLAND ACRES, according to the Plat thereof as recorded in Liber 1 of Plats, Page 65, Crawford County Records.

The redemption period shall be three months from date of sale. The property may be redeemed by paying the amount bid at the sale, plus interest at the rate of Nine and One-Half (9 1/2%) Percent, and any fees, taxes or other unpaid encumbrances on the property from the date of the sale.

The property shall be offered for sale in parcels or in total.

The regular meeting of the Beaver Creek Township Board was called to order by Supervisor Schultes at 7:00 p.m. Board members present: Schultes, McGregor, McDonough and Hartman. Absent: Moberak. There were approximately 50 guests present.

Minutes accepted as presented and treasurer's report was received as read.

Supervisor's report:

Report on cleanup days, not enough metal containers.

Request to fertilize park, cost being approximately $150.

Suggested we wait until spring to put new bed on blue trailer used to move lawnmowers.

Crawford County Abstract & Title will be doing necessary title search work of gaps and overlaps on Oak Road.

Vaccination clinic for pets will be held Nov. 4, at Community Center with $7 charge per shot.

Fourteen pieces of correspondence were accepted.

OLD BUSINESS:

Letter has been drafted by McDonough to Michigan Historical Commission requesting offsite placement of marker for Pere Cheney Cemetery.

Township Ordinance IV and zoning violation lists are being worked on. Motion made by McGregor to proceed with getting work on Oak Road condemned and blight removed. Seconded and carried.

DOODLES FROM THE TALL TIMBER

By Wendell L. Hoover, Park Interpreter,
North Higgins Lake State Park

the 60 years the nursery was in operation. Keep in mind that when the processing of cones started, it went on around the clock, 24 hours a day, until the available cones had been processed. Some years, there were as many as 4,600 bushels of cones to process.

Once the cones were open, the trays in the oven were emptied into the tumbler. It required at least a half hour of manual turning to extract the seeds from the cones in one oven (There are four ovens). Under the tumbler, is a shallow tray to catch the seeds and loose debris, such as twigs, needles and scales from the cones.

After the tumbling process was complete, the cones were put in a metal container and wet down. The moisture caused the cones to close, and later those cones would be put back in the ovens for a second heat treatment. The second heating process caused the cones to open even more, therefore allowing additional seeds to be extracted. Seed buyers were paying $22 a pound for processed conifer seeds, so those additional ounces made the process worthwhile. There are nearly 22,000 white pine seeds in a pound, and slightly over 18,000 red pine seeds in a pound. According to some information I have, five and a half ounces of seed was required for each seed bed.

Next time, more about the nursery, but keep in mind that as the fall colors get more intense, do not overlook the opportunity to get out and enjoy. You have an invitation to come walk the 11 miles of foot trails at North Higgins or the Marl Lake Trails at South Higgins. The scenery will be gorgeous, and the time spent communing with Mother Nature should be beneficial to your well being.

Noted Detroit poet to read at Kirtland

On Wednesday, Oct. 4, former Detroit poet Jim Daniels will be giving a reading from his work at Kirtland Community College's Continuing Education Center (C.E.C.) (the former Kirtland House) on College Drive, neighboring Kirtland's campus. The reading is at 7:30 p.m. and is free and open to the public; copies of Daniel's books will be available, and a reception and book signing will follow. Before the reading, at 4 p.m., Daniels will be doing an informal question and answer session in room three in Kirtland's Academic building. That session is also open to the public. Both of these events are made possible by funding from Poets & Writers, Inc. through a generous grant they have received from the Lila Wallace-Readers Digest Fund.

A former auto-plant worker and a current faculty member of Carnegie Mellon University, Daniels is the author of several small collections of poetry and three full-length collections, including M-80, Punching Out, and Places/Everyone (which won the Brittingham Award for Poetry in 1985). He's also the editor of a forthcoming anthology of poems dealing with the issue of race relations.

Daniel's poems deal with interpersonal relationships, work, and the role of the individual in the community and explores the wealth of vulnerabilities and strengths our daily lives present to us, and he does so with artistry and craft that has earned him national recognition. Primarily an urban poet, Daniels also explores the sharp edges of city life in a way that universalizes the experience, and shows us the sharp edges of our lives, wherever we live.

Furthermore, Daniels was the screen writer of the 1993 movie No Pets, a free showing of which will be screened at 7 p.m. at the C.E.C. on Thursday, Oct. 5.

For more information about the reading series, contact Gerry LaFemina at (517) 275-5121, ext. 376.

NOTICE OF PUBLICATION OF ZONING ADDITIONS TO ORDINANCE #2

At its meeting of September 6, 1995, the Lovells Township Zoning Board approved proposed amendments to the Lovells Township Zoning Ordinance #2 Chapters VI and VII. These amendments, if passed, would be the following additions as section 6.5 and section 7.5 respectively:

Chapter VI Residential/Recreational Chapter VII Residential

1. Dwelling, manufactured housing, and/or structures for habitation must have 800 square feet of living space minimum. This does not include basements, attics, or breezeways.
2. No garage construction will be allowed on properties without a residence.
3. No electrical permit will be issued without plans and a permit for a dwelling and a septic system.
4. All mobile homes and/or manufactured housing must be HUD certified and so marked and 30 pound live load.
5. All mobile homes and/or manufactured housing must have a pitched roof. A HUD certified home can meet this requirement by approved construction.

The Lovells Township Board will consider passage of these amendments at its regular monthly meeting on October 10, 1995, at 7 pm, at the Lovells Township Hall. Copies of the proposed amendments may be obtained at the Lovells Township Hall during business hours. Objections or comments to these proposed changes must be in writing and submitted to the Lovells Township Clerk prior to the meeting for consideration of same.

Some things get better and more valuable with age

Some things really are better and more valuable with age—wine and violins, notwithstanding!

More time. Although you may have less money in retirement, you have more time. There is time to be leisurely, time to put things off until you feel like doing them, time to look and feel and reflect.

Your time is your own; on whatever interests you relish it!

Learning. Having more leisure means more time to read, reflect and get more from it. Join classes on whatever interests you and add new ideas and new skills to your life.

Don't be afraid of sounding "dumb" with any of your questions. After all, you have nothing to prove turned 21, at how much his father had learned in three years!

All of the past hurts incurred have been forgiven and forgotten and you get down to the bedrock of how much caring is really there.

Perspective. There's an old saying that in life, all the sugar is at the bottom of the cup—well, that may prove exactly right with advancing years. You finally become aware that most of the worries coming down the road run into the ditch before they get to you. You become wiser, more tolerant, better able to see and forgive; especially yourself, because you've done the best you can.

Since it's the only way to live a long time, it's nice to thought his father didn't know the time of day and does have its own was amazed when he compensations.

Improving with the passing years

Yes, it's true. You are likely to find yourself improving with the passing years in these important ways:

•After age 60, most people have very few colds, if any, thanks to the immunities they've developed over a lifetime.

•Those who have not developed an autoimmune disease like lupus, over time, especially after multiple sclerosis or say goodbye to menstrual cramps and PMS, unless rheumatoid arthritis by their mid-forties, are much less likely to do so afterward.

•Healthy older people have low incidences of anxiety and depression, according to a study at the medical college of Pennsylvania.

•Folks in their 30s are sleepier during the day than those in their 80s, according to one study.

•Women who have passed menopause can say goodbye to menstrual cramps and PMS, unless they are taking hormone replacement drugs.

•Although older people may become physically slower, their experience allows them to compensate. This may give them better aim and concentration, for instance.

•And healthy older women know it: one survey found women over 70 the most likely age group to rate themselves healthier than most of their peers.

Have you tagged your kids today?

A driver's license, bank cards, a social security card, possibly a name tag from work.

The average person carries at least five different types of identification. Dogs are also required to carry identification in the form of a dog license. Children, however, often are without even the simplest of identification and emergency information.

In today's society of two working parents, it is not realistic that every parent will be there when their children need them most. One out of five children will be involved in a medical emergency this year. In one out of four of these cases the first person on the scene will not be a parent.

George Wager of California, was sitting on his front porch one day in 1983 watching his three kids play in the yard. He had just read a newspaper story about a young boy who had been hit by a car. The boy carried no identification and the police couldn't locate his parents. Six hours after the accident, the mother was finally found. The boy died of massive head injuries 20 hours later.

Wager looked at his dog and noticed the tags showing his pet's name, address, owner and phone number. His dog carried more identification than his children did.

In an attempt to remedy this problem, Wager designed a tear-resistant, washable tag that could be stitched into shoes or clothes. He named it the Lifesaver Tag and began giving them out to anyone who would take one.

Lifesaver Tags are simple but effective protection that children can wear that will help in every situation. They are indeleble when you write on them with a standard ball point pen. They can be laced into footwear or sewn into clothing.

The tags help locate parents with three phone numbers. The tags also provide information to paramedics and hospital personnel. Most important the tags provides parental consent so treatment will not be delayed.

To receive free Lifesaver tags, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Lifesaver P.O. Box 2533, Garden Grove, CA 92640. Donations are gratefully accepted.

Forest fire equipment purchased for state

Thanks to a grant provided by the office of Michigan's Governor, John Engler, the firefighting forces of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will be better prepared to handle wildfire emergencies.

"The $5.0 million appropriation has allowed us to purchase much needed equipment to replace some of the antiquated equipment currently in use," DNR Director Roland Harmes said.

According to Michigan law, the DNR's Resource Protection section of the Forest Management Division is charged with providing fire protection on all forest lands in the state. This includes state and private lands which now total over 20 million acres of forest, brush and grass lands, and accounts for about 60 percent of the total land base in Michigan.

"The average acreage burned in Michigan as a result of wildfires has been reduced from 300,000 annually in the 1930s, to 50,000 in the 1950s, to around 5,000 acres each year today," State Fire Supervisor Ron Wilson said.

"This has been accomplished through fire planning and prevention, as well as the use of highly specialized equipment, operated by a highly-trained firefighting force of less than 100 forest fire officers statewide."

Prior to the issuance, and subsequent expenditure of this grant, the fleet of tractor plows were 18 years old, on average, and the fire trucks were nearly 25 years old. The forest fire protection program in Michigan was designed to be mechanized and extremely efficient. Equipment purchased through this appropriation will allow that protection to continue at the highest level possible.

Fire equipment now being received by the DNR at various locations throughout the state include 12 John Deere model 450 crawler tractors, one TD 650, a Caterpillar D5H, seven relifted John Deere model 350 crawler tractors, 15 Peterbilt trucks for crawler tractor transport, 14 International 4800 4-wheel-drive vehicles being converted for fire use, 10 HUMMERS, a commercial version of the AM General military HUMMV vehicles for conversion to wildfire use. In addition, the special appropriation allowed for the purchase of a skidder, equipment trailers, remote electronic weather stations, water pumps, tanks, plows, foam proportioners and specialized radio equipment.

Construction update on new school, athletic field

By Linda Sherwood
Staff Writer

Unexpected delays have slowed the construction progress on the new athletic field. Originally, the field was scheduled to be completed in the fall of 1995, but that completion date has been pushed back until the Fall of 1996, according to Kent Reynolds, superintendent of Crawford AuSable School District.

"To answer the rumors, no we are not out of money," said Reynolds. "We are simply attempting to get the best quality field for the best price."

Reynolds said the ability to use the youth boosters football field has saved the district.

"That allowed us the luxury of extending the time line," said Reynolds.

Bids for the final phase of construction on the athletic field will be accepted by the board of education on Tuesday, Sept. 26. The bids are for all remaining construction including construction of the grandstands, track, concession stand, press box, remaining fencing, irrigation, planting grass on all other areas, paving for walkways and lighting.

"That is really an important day," said Reynolds. "We will find out how accurate we were budgeting the project." The board will take two weeks to analyze the bids. The construction manager will interview each of the low bids to make sure they meet the specifications and time lines.

By extending the time line, Reynolds said the district should receive better bids because most construction companies will not have a complete work schedule lined up for next year yet. Instead of working the project into an already complete schedule, the companies will be planning their schedules around the construction of the athletic field. Secondly, the extension will allow the school board to make decisions on the budget. The athletic field will not be completely done until after the new elementary school is finished.

DONE IN TIME FOR TRACK?

The construction on the new athletic field should be done in early August of next year, said Reynolds.

"We can't put the track in until the grandstand is done," he said. If the track was put in first, it would be damaged when the heavy equipment came in to construct the grandstands.

Ideally, the steel support beams will be placed in the barn before the end of the year, said Reynolds. This would allow construction on the grandstands to begin as soon as possible in the spring.

NEW ELEMENTARY

The first phase of construction for the new elementary school is underway and progressing well, said Reynolds. The trees have been cleared and work will begin next week on the footings.

Klein house sold, parents needed for committee

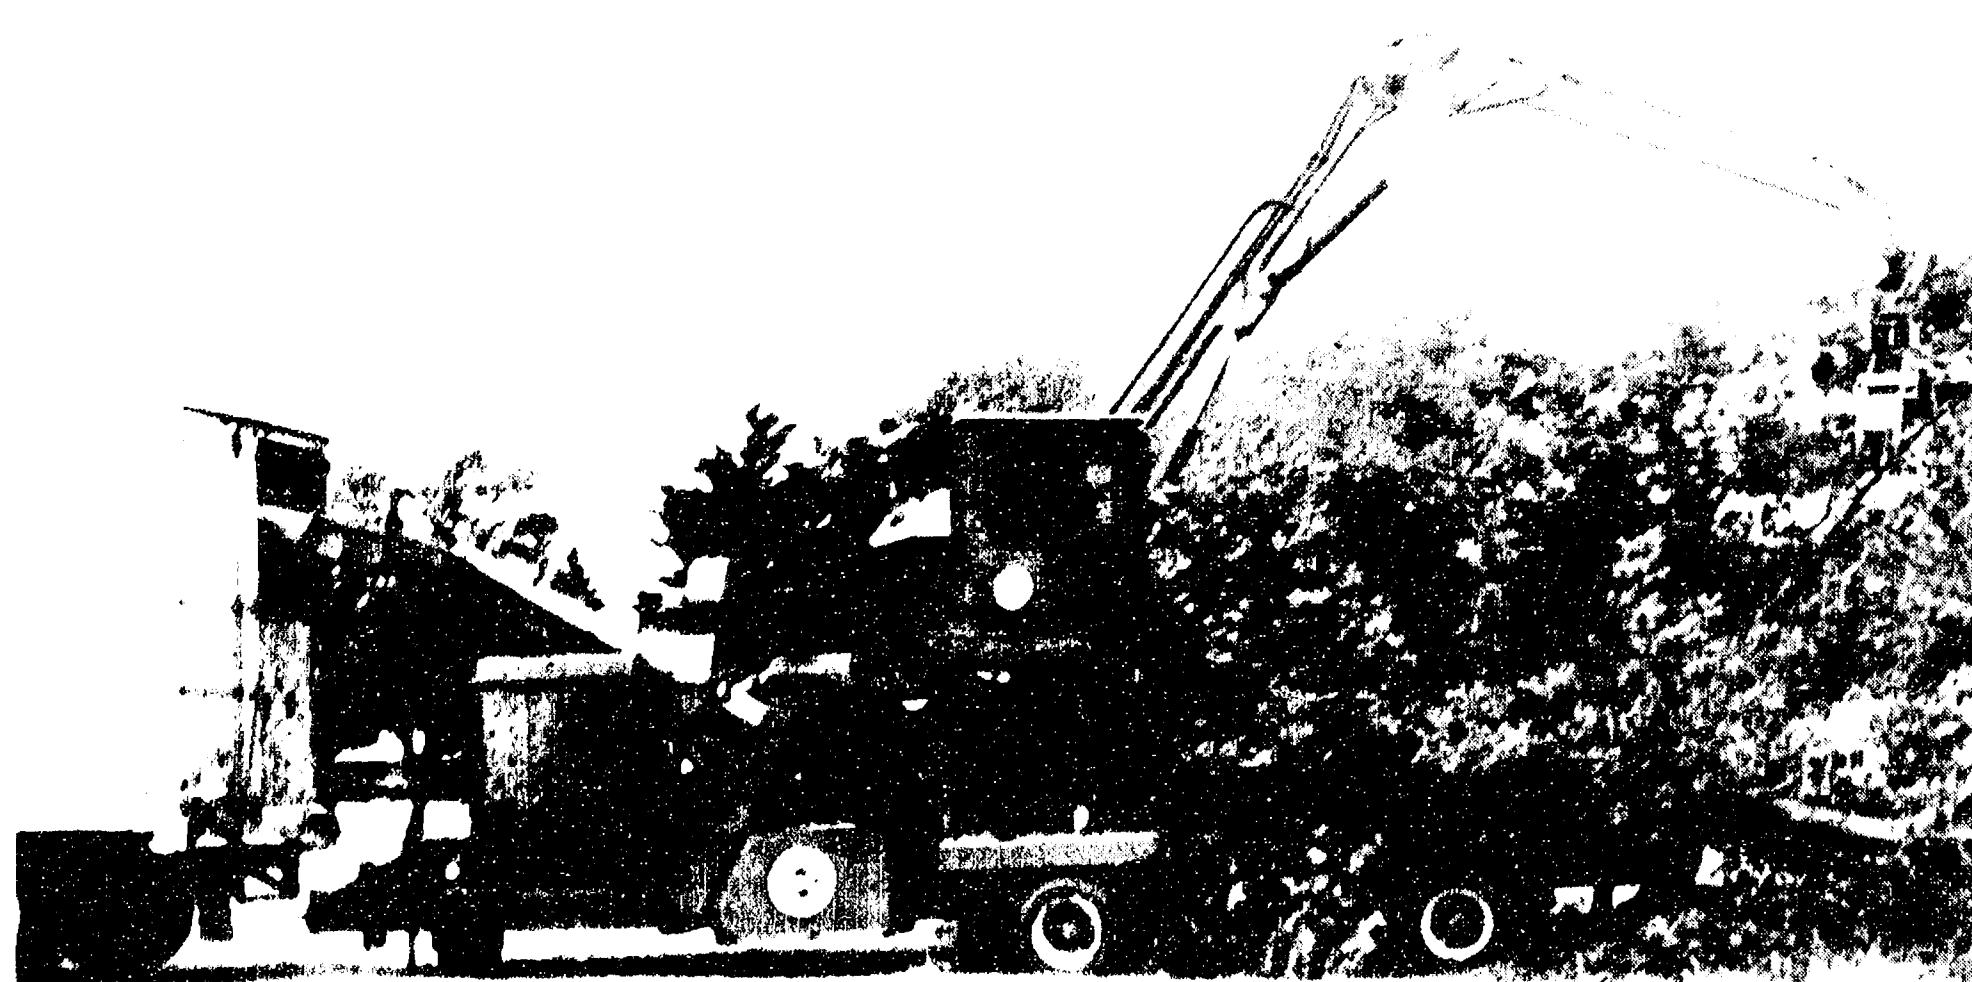

The Crawford AuSable Board of Education accepted an offer of $20,100 from Roger and Caroline Hall for the purchase of the home located in the City of Grayling, which was donated by Evelyn Klein.

Evelyn Klein was an English teacher and high school librarian in the school district for many years. She also taught kindergarten and sixth grade. After retiring in 1976, Klein moved to her family farm in Moorestown, where she still resides. Klein donated the house to the district with the written intent that it be sold and the proceeds be used to benefit the students and staff of the district.

An advisory committee will be formed to decide how to use the proceeds of the sale. Klein suggested that the committee include a school board member, two administrators, two parents and members of the Klein family. Any parent interested in being a part of this committee should contact Paul Lerg, assistant superintendent. The committee should be formed within the next month. The board would like recommendations to be available to them by the November board meeting.

Cutting or shaving your child's hair or even frequent washings will not prevent him or her from contracting head lice. The best prevention is to teach children not to use combs, hats or scarves that belong to others.

GIGANTIC WOOD CHIPPER -- Jack Millikin Inc. cleared trees fast at the future site of the new Grayling Elementary School. This wood chipper was capable of chipping entire trees several feet in diameter without any problems. Clearing the trees is part of the first of three construction phases for the new school.

The bids for the second phase of construction for the new elementary school are due on Oct. 25 and will be rewarded on Nov. 1. The second phase includes constructing the bearing walls and building enclosure. The doors and roof will also be installed.

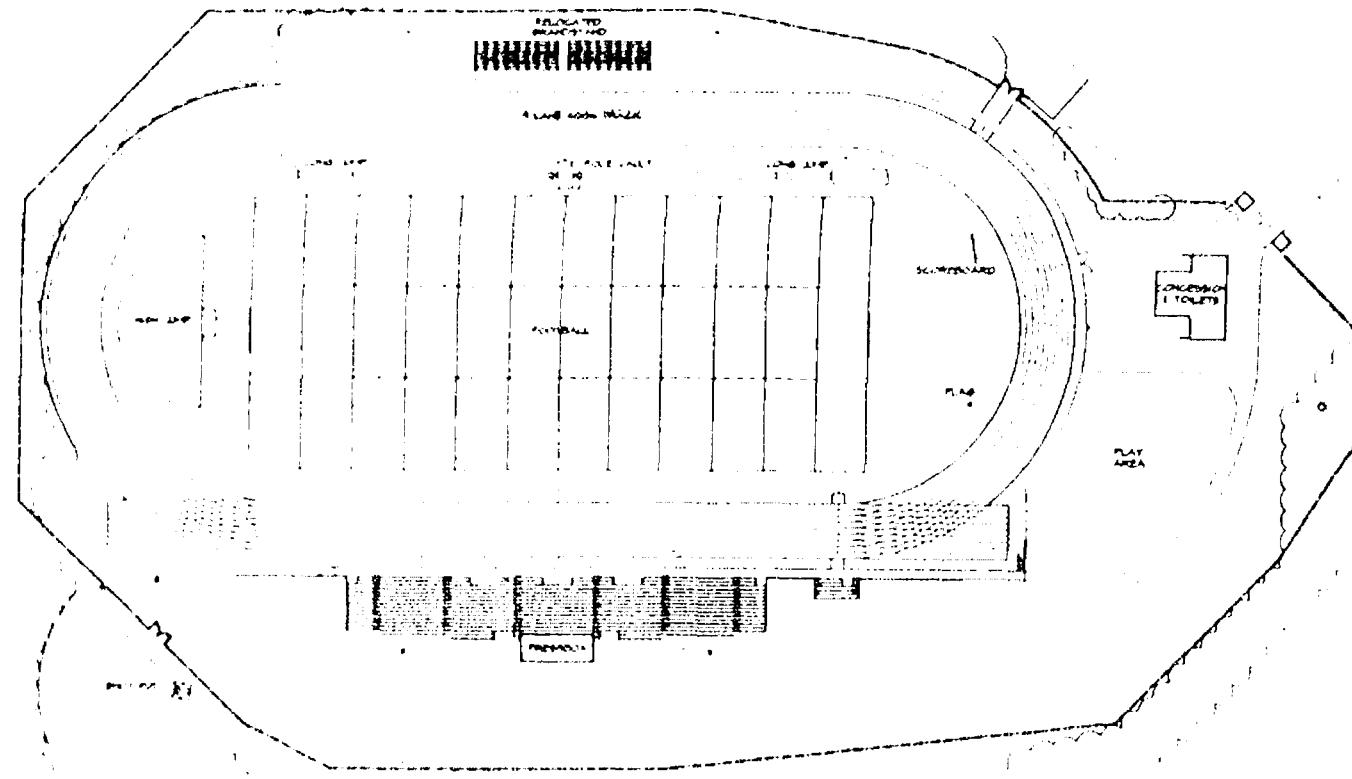

The third phase of the elementary construction will be all of the finishing work, such as painting, floor covering, cabinetry and outside site work. The third phase will be bid in January.

THE OTHER ELEMENTARY SCHOOLS

Planning will begin next month for work at the Frederic and Grayling elementary schools. The final decisions should be done by December, so bids can also begin in January. Reynolds said not a lot of construction will be done on the two schools, but it's important construction. Grayling elementary will receive a new roof, Frederic will have energy efficient entryways installed, as well as converting classroom space to office space. Both buildings will also have work done on the parking lots and playgrounds.

Grayling elementary will also have some work done converting the building to a grades 3-5 building. The drinking fountains and bathrooms in the current K-2 area will have to be replaced to accommodate the larger children. The kitchen, which will no longer be needed, will also undergo renovation. It will become a music room. Some of the work on the two buildings will be done in the spring, with

Spread the word, not the problem

Head lice hits Crawford County, no one is immune

School has started and the annual "breakout" of head lice has found its way into the schools, day cares and homes in Crawford County.

Head lice are not finicky. Parents and children should not be embarrassed because of a head lice infection. The parasite can infect anyone regardless of how clean children and homes are kept. Even the cleanest person or residence can be infected with head lice. No one is immune and everyone can get it, even adults. As many as six to 12 million Americans are diagnosed with head lice each year.

The local schools and health department are doing everything possible to prevent the spread of head lice, but the cooperation of parents is needed to be successful. Head lice spreads very easily through an entire family or a whole school. Parents need to be aware of what head lice is and how it is spread before head lice ever becomes a problem.

Head lice is basically a nuisance disease, said Health Department nurse Sue Lucksted. There shouldn't be a social stigma attached, anyone can get head lice.

BUSTING THE MYTHS

- Cutting or shaving your child's hair or even frequent washings will not prevent him or her from contracting head lice. The best prevention is to teach children not to use combs, hats or scarves that belong to others.
- Head lice do not jump or fly. The most common way lice are transmitted is through direct head-to-head contact. But lice can be passed indirectly through personal articles such as hats and combs, pillows, stuffed animals, sharing lockers or clothing hooks and carpeting.

Head lice are not contracted from animals. They cannot live or reproduce on animals, but can be carried by them for a short time similar to being carried by a hat or comb. The lice need a human host to live and reproduce.

• Kerosene is not a suitable form of treatment for head lice. Kerosene is very toxic. The treatments available over-the-counter or by prescription are perfectly capable of treating head lice.

SCHOOL POLICY

The Crawford AuSable School District has a "no nit" policy. Nits are what the eggs of head lice are called. In order for a child to be readmitted to school after having head lice, all nits have to be gone from the child's hair. If the child still has nits, the child will be sent home.

If a child is absent from school because of head lice, every child in the class will be checked for head lice. Siblings and their classmates will also be checked. It is important that if your child is absent from school because of head lice, that you notify the school.

DETECTING HEAD LICE

Parents should check their children for head lice at least once a week. Head lice are small insects about the size of a sesame seed. It is difficult to see the lice when checking your child's hair. The best way to detect head lice is to look for nits. Nits can be found about a quarter-inch to a half-inch away from the scalp, attached to a single hair shaft. The best places to check for nits is behind the ears, the nape of the neck and bangs.

Once you are certain that your child the bulk of the work done in the summer. The renovations may be delayed if the new building isn't finished by the fall of 1996, because classrooms can't be converted to other uses until they are no longer needed as classroom space, said Reynolds.

TECHNOLOGICAL CHANGES

Planning has already started for the technology network to be installed in all of the buildings. There are three parts to the technology network. The first phase will connect all buildings with a network for data only. The second phase is the installation of a computer network within each building that will include data, video and CD-ROM. The third phase involves installing work stations in the new elementary school and in the high school. The new building will have a computer in every classroom. At the high school level, an auto-CAD drafting and publications laboratory will be installed.

MIDDLE SCHOOL

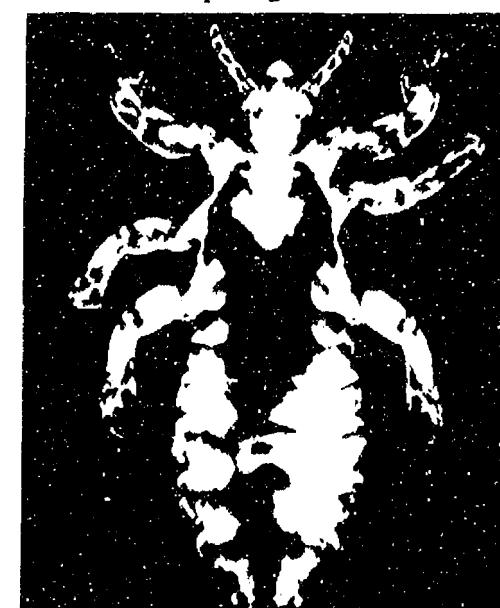

The lack of available space for parking and play areas has been a problem at the middle school for well over 20 years. As many as 70 cars are parked at the middle school at any one time during a day, not an easy feat for a building that offers only 47 parking spaces. The overflow moves to the streets causing snowplowing headaches for the city.

"That's a parking crisis," said Reynolds. "The problem has been at its current level for close to 20 years."

The lack of space also provides problems for the physical education classes at the middle school. In the past, students were bused or walked to the elementary school or city park in order to have space for activities.

In an effort to find solutions for both problems, the school board has purchased six lots in the area. Two of the lots are located on Chestnut Street, the other four lots are on the same block as the Central Office Building. One of these areas will be used for additional parking and the other for playfields, said Reynolds.

The final decision on where the parking and playfields will be located has to be made before the district will purchase more property.

HIGHLY MAGNIFIED --

has lice, every family member should be examined. There are three steps to the successful treatment of head lice. The first step is using a treatment shampoo to kill any lice present on the scalp. There are over-the-counter or prescription remedies available.

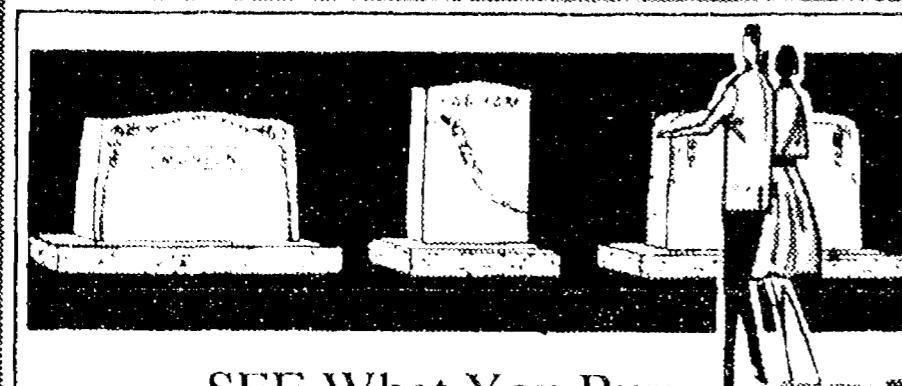

The second step is removing all nits present in the hair. Nits may survive the initial treatment. In order to prevent reinfection when the nits hatch, they should be removed with a fine tooth comb. Most treatments come with fine tooth combs to use. The third step is to clean the environment. Head lice can survive off the scalp for several hours, and the nits for much longer.

All personal belongings, bedding, combs and brushes should be cleaned in hot water. Upholstered furniture and carpeting, as well as car upholstery should be vacuumed daily for several days.

In addition to treating your family, you should also notify anyone who may have had close contact with the infested person. Be sure to call the school and let them know so your child's class mates can be checked.

If a parent does not notify the school, possibly because of embarrassment, their child could become reinfected by classmates. By notifying the school, the entire class is checked and the possibility of further infestation is prevented.

If you would like more information on head lice, you can contact your physician or pharmacist. Information is also available at the District #1 Health Department, phone 348-7800.

Viking soccer club starts season with two wins

The Crawford AuSable School Board recently approved the recommendation by Athletic Director, Ben Laser, to initiate a soccer program at the Grayling High School. The board approved soccer as a club sport for the 1995-96 school year, with the intent that it be a varsity sport beginning the fall of 1996.

Uniforms and equipment for the Viking Soccer Club and the U-14 (middle school) Sidekicks travel team were generously donated by the Grayling Youth Booster Club.

The Vikings have a 2-0 record so far this season. Their first game was against Houghton Lake. The game ended with a score of 7-3, with Jeff Hoffman making four goals, Florian Hudert making three goals, Kevin Langseth had four assists, Ken Bolick, Alejandro Gomez, and Sean Casey each had one assist.

On Sunday, Sept. 24, they traveled to Bellaire, where they got their second

X-Country team continues to improve

The Grayling High School Cross-Country team competed in an invitational meet on Tuesday, Sept. 19, at East Jordan. A total of nine schools competed, and the Grayling boys' team came in fourth place overall.

Individual highlights for the boys included Josh Taylor running first for Grayling, and earning a medal for his 15th-place finish, out of 75 male athletes.

Placing second for Grayling boys' varsity was Brad Lamm, third was Andy Ignash, fourth was Mike Marellich and fifth was Seth Madsen.

First for boys' JV was Jared Medler.

Brooke Ginther stole the show as she came in first for Grayling girls, and seventh out of 45 lady runners, earning a medal. Natalie Kent came in second for Grayling, and 18th overall. An extra round of applause goes to the following runners for improving their best times by two minutes or more: Julie McAnallen, Seth Madsen, Natalie Kent and Evan Glicker.

At the Saturday invitational in Petoskey, the Viking cross-country runners ran well. The team competed in the Class AB section against the following schools: Brighton, Traverse City, Cadillac, Petoskey, Big Rapids, Hartland, Kalkaska and Sault Ste. Marie.

The highlight of the day was Mickey McClain's 19th-place finish, out of 60 JV male athletes, to earn a medal.

The team's next race is Wednesday, Sept. 29, at Whittemore. If you would like the opportunity to support the team in its efforts, Monday, Oct. 2, the team will compete at Roscommon. Plan on attending and cheering the Viking runners on to victory.

Jazzercise class to benefit Sarah Weaver set for Oct. 8

Those who like to exercise or dance -- or both -- are invited to a special Jazzercise class in honor of Grayling's Sarah Weaver.

Certified Jazzercise instructor Cathy Hehir will teach a class on Sunday, Oct. 8, at the Grayling Holiday Inn, from 2 to 3:15 p.m.

The entrance fee is a minimum donation of $4 -- the cost of a regular Jazzercise class. All proceeds will go to the family of Sarah Weaver, who has been hospitalized for months in Ann Arbor with a rare kidney disease. Hehir teaches Jazzercise three times a week in Grayling.

"I read about Sarah in the Crawford County Avalanche and I just had to do something for her," she recently told her class. "I decided to hold this special Jazzercise class so we could all get together to send positive energy straight to her in Ann Arbor."

"Jazzercise is for everybody," said Hehir. "This special class is open to men and women, boys and girls, of all ages and all levels of fitness. Everybody can work at his or her own level. We say as long as you're moving, you're doing it right."

Suggested apparel for the class is light, loose-fitting, comfortable clothing with aerobic or tennis shoes. Participants will also want to bring a water bottle and hand towel.

"Everyone is welcome," said Hehir. "If anyone wants to just come and watch, that is fine. But we hope they will feel free to exercise. We'll have easy-to-follow routines."

Participants should come a bit early to sign up. A permission note is necessary for Jazzercisers under 18 unless they are accompanied by a parent or guardian.

All proceeds from the afternoon's event will go into Sarah Weaver's fund. Hehir is donating her time and the Holiday Inn is donating the use of its rooms.

Vikings lose 8-0 to Kalkaska Blue Blazers

The Grayling Vikings, searching for their first Great Northern Conference, Huron Division victory, dropped a tough defensive struggle with the Kalkaska Blue Blazers on Friday, Sept. 22.

A very large and physical Blazer defense stopped the Vikings both on the ground and in the air.

"Kalkaska probably has the best line in the league," said coach Rodney Patterson.

Patterson said despite the loss, he was very pleased with the performances of his players.

"We had some younger kids who usually don't get to play that often, step up and play hard. That's an important key to any team, and a good indicator that we're heading in the right direction."

Patterson praised the play of Jeremy Colby, Josh Stabinski, Ben Haskel, Mike Knight and Aaron Perrin. He also said he is very pleased with the punting of Scott Hartman.

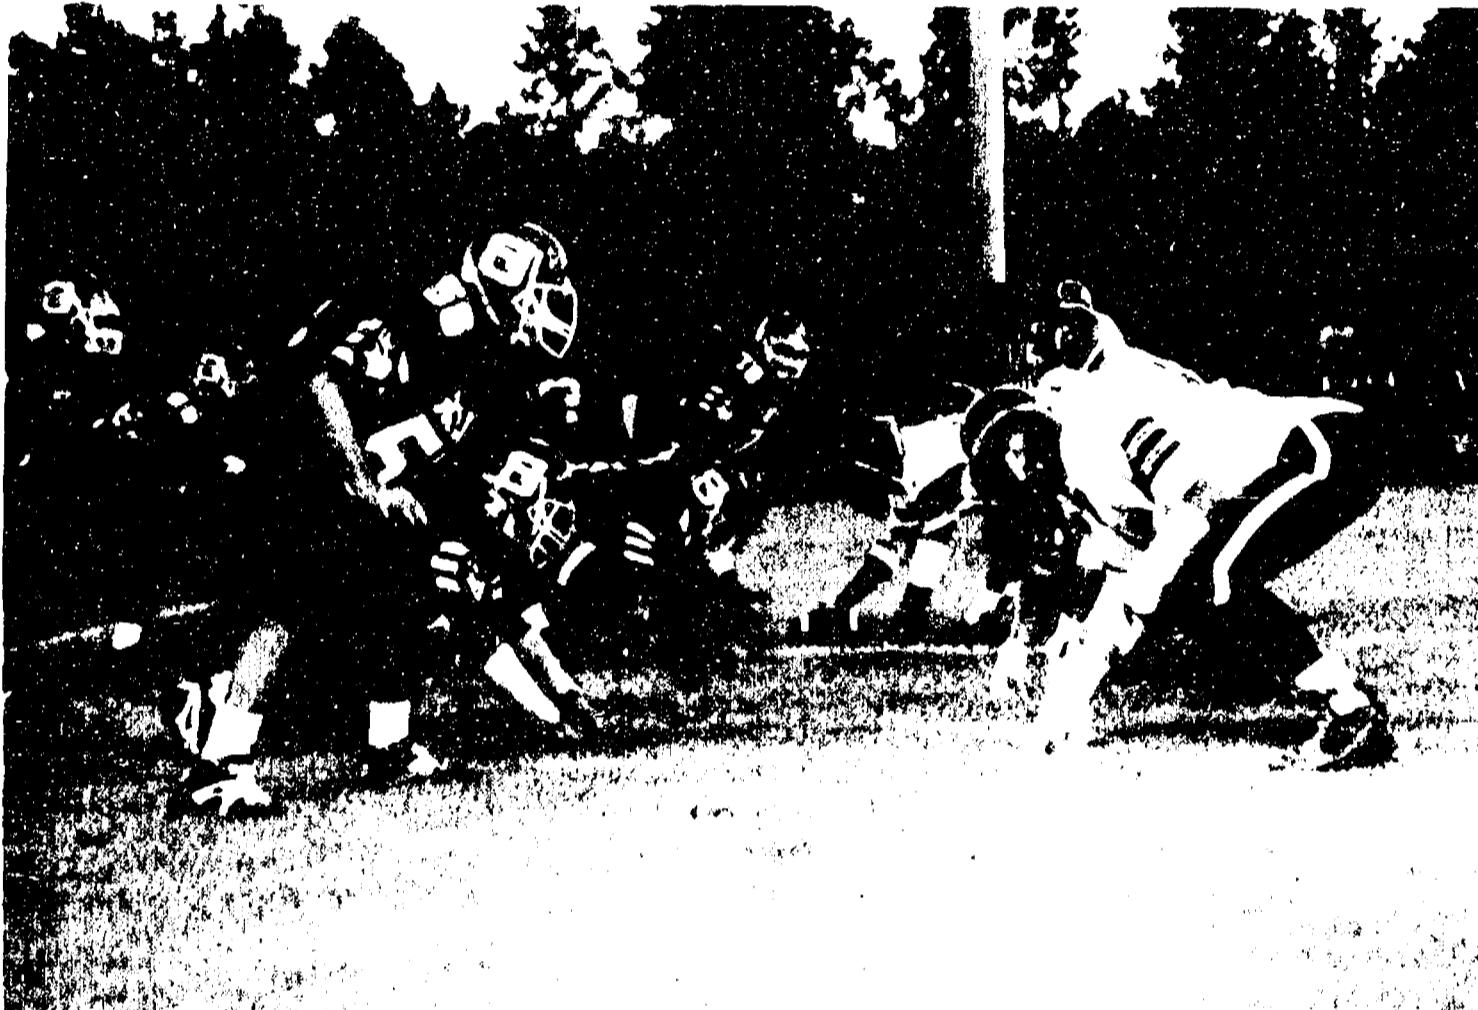

In rushing, Andy Perrin gained 34 yards on 10 carries and Joe Godlewski gained 35 yards on 11 carries.

Godlewski finished the game completing two of 10 passes.

The Vikings face the Alcona Tigers on Friday, Sept. 29, in the annual GHS homecoming game.

OFFENSE--Offensively, the Vikings, led by quarterback Joe Godlewski #10, have the potential to break the game open on both the ground and through the air. The Vikings host the Alcona Tigers on Friday, Sept. 29, in the annual homecoming game.

DEFENSE--The Vikings line up their defensive unit in the recent game against Rogers City. Although the Vikings have much athletic talent and football capability, they are much smaller than most teams they have faced this season.

Viking girls struggle on hoops court

The Grayling Viking girls' basketball squad evened its record at four wins against four losses by dropping two games last week.

On Thursday, Sept. 21, the Vikings entertained the girls from Alcona, in hopes of gaining a big conference win, but the Tigers beat the Vikings by a 59-47 score.

"Alcona was a good shooting team," said Viking coach Tom Mills. "Their guards combined for 36 points and their inside people had 21 points. We were in the game, but didn't challenge them in the second half."

Scoring leaders for the Vikings were Miggon Andersen with 19, followed by Amy Neal's 12 and Jenny Wilkins' eight. Neal led the rebounders with eight while Brooke Blaauw added seven. Jenny Wilkins added five assists.

"We're not out of anything yet," Mills said. "Our confidence is low, but if we can get back to fundamental basketball we'll do better."

"We need to play better defense and we need to control our fouls. Alcona shot 33 free throws, we shot only 13."

On the previous Tuesday, the Vikings traveled to Gaylord, where they suffered a 69-45 defeat at the hands of the Gaylord Blue Devils.

Neal led the Vikes in scoring with 12 points. Wilkins added 11. Andersen and Neal had 12 and 11 rebounds respectively. Wilkins added four assists.

"We didn't take advantage of opportunities," Mills said. "We're not doing a good job of that."

The girls traveled to Charlevoix on Tuesday, Sept. 26, and on Thursday, Sept. 28, they will host the girls of Whittemore Prescott.

Hunting & Fishing Weekly Update

THIS PAST WEEK I had the opportunity to hunt birds with two very good dogs, and a great experience it was watching those dogs work. It has been a good bird season so far, although it just started and the good hunting is yet to come after the foliage gets down and the ferns tip over.

The countdown to archery season is marching on. This coming Sunday will get here quickly and the bowmen will be covering the woods once again. There are good numbers of deer all around the county.

The salmon are coming in strong in all of the rivers now so get out there and get some action.

Grayling Redskins JV#2 win 4th shutout

The Grayling Redskins JV#2 football team defeated the Gaylord Chargers, 20-0, in Gaylord on Sept. 23. The win over Gaylord was the fourth straight shutout for the Redskins. Victories for the Redskins over Mio 26-0, Atlanta 19-0, and Grayling JV#1 19-0 were the other three shutouts.

Cameron McClain scored his seventh touchdown of the season on a 52-yard run during the Gaylord Chargers game. Touchdown runs of 26-yards by Ryan Mahaffey, 18-yards by RJ Schmidt and an extra point kick by Tom King rounded out the Redskin's scoring.

Top players were Larry Baynham Jr., Travis Beaman, Chris McGuire and Joshua Bonamie, according to defensive coordinator Larry Baynham. Third string quarterback Travis Fagan led a late fourth quarter drive with exceptional runs by Eric Hunter and Matt Cottrell. The Gaylord victory was dedicated to Richard Niederer who is recovering from a leg injury.

The victory against Mio on Sept. 3 found McClain scoring three touchdowns on runs of 72 yards, 28 yards and 51 yards. Offensive coordinator Rick Schmidt cited several linemen including Nick Baynham, Jason Collier and David Golnick for opening large holes for McClain.

Mike D'Amour recovered a blocked punt by Chris Peters for a touchdown with Hunter scoring the extra point. Line coach Lenny Mahaffey noted William Armstrong and Brian Winchester leading the charge for the final extra point scored by Nick D'Amour. Defensively, Coach Baynham indicated that Josh Quintano and Richard Niederer had several key tackles.

The Redskin JV#2 defeated a big Atlanta team on Sept. 9, 19-0. McClain scored two touchdowns with runs of 80 yards total. McClain also scored an extra point keyed by a smothering Golnick block. T.J. Rankin added the Redskin's other touchdown on a recovered fumble. Secondary coach Dee Mead felt that exceptional cornerback play by Josh Messerschmidt, Matt Kersey, Jimmy Godlewski and Brett GOTCHA -- David Golnick makes the tackle with Chris Peters looking on.

Mead helped contain the powerful Atlanta offense.

A stifling defensive battle was had with the Grayling JV#1 team on Sept. 16, with only one offensive touchdown scored by McClain on a 49-yard run. Both Grayling teams came up with big defensive plays as Head Coach Tom Haskel saw linebackers Dustin Beaman, Nate Haskel and Chris Malone make several open field tackles. Nick D'Amour and Chris Peters added to the JV#2 scoring with recovered fumbles for touchdowns. Quarterback Chet Wheeler passed to Mahaffey for an extra point conversion.

Offensive line coach John Hunter revealed that Roy Czapek and Steve Gildner matched up well against the strong JV#1 defensive line. Kicking coach Dan Bonamie figured deep kick-offs by Tom King helped prevent scoring drives by the speedy JV#1 offense.

GO CHET GO -- Chet Wheeler #14 runs with the ball while T.J. Rankin #38 blocks.

Redskins to host Sept. 30

The Grayling Redskins 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grade teams will host four games at their new football field on Saturday, Sept. 30. Their new football field is located at the Grayling Youth Booster Sport Complex at the Crawford County Fairgrounds.

Games will begin at 12 noon with JV#1 squaring off against the Gaylord Royal Chargers. At 1:30 p.m., the JV#2 5th-7th grade team will play the Gaylord Navy Chargers. At 3 p.m. the Mio Dolphins 7th and 8th grade team will play the Gaylord White Chargers. The Grayling Redskins Varsity 7th and 8th grade team will play the Southern Division Oscoda Colts in the final game at 5 p.m.

The Grayling JV#1 team record is two wins and two losses. The Grayling JV#2 team record is four wins and no losses and have not even been scored on. The Redskin Varsity team has won three and lost one.

Freshman B-ball continues to learn more

The first home game of the new season was a learning experience for the girls' freshman basketball team. The Vikings lost their first game to Petoskey, 41-20, at home on Tuesday, Sept. 12. The girls overcame their first-game jitters, however, when they faced off against Lake City on Thursday, Sept. 14, the Vikings defeated Lake City, 38-27.

"The girls were nervous for their first game," said Coach Anne Beckwith. They did well and stayed with them in the first half. The Vikings were only down five points at the end of the first half.

LeAnna Mathews was the lead scorer for the Vikings with seven points. Other top performances were turned in by Brie Blaauw with six points and eight rebounds and Sarah Wells with two points and six rebounds. Carrie Hatfield and Kelly Mecham each contributed two points, with Tanya Rice contributing one point.

"I have a good group of girls with great attitudes," said Beckwith about this year's team. "We just have some kinks to work out. I think we will do well this year."

The girls continued to be jittery for the first half of play against Lake City on Thursday. But the Vikings came back strong for the second half and won the game.

"We played catch up in first half," said Beckwith. "We missed a lot of shots. They started to fall in second half. We played great defense."

Top scorer for the Lake City game was Brie Blaauw with 10 points. Sarah Wells continued to rack up the points, contributing seven. A real team effort was shown with Stephanie Wichert, Jean Zelek, Brandy Autko, Carrie Hatfield, Shannon Anglebrandt, Tanya Rice and Heidi Wallace all contributing two points to the final score.

Making your move a smooth one

The documents are signed and you're ready to move. Well, almost. Your energies have been directed toward buying a new home, and now the task of actually moving looms before you.

While the thought of moving might throw most people into a panic, careful preparation and planning can turn a potentially stressful undertaking into a smooth, even enjoyable transition.

The first, and probably most important step, is to discuss openly with all family members the reasons for the move. Be enthusiastic as you tell your children about your new home, neighborhood, parks and schools. Having the whole family's support, shared enthusiasm and involvement will alleviate fears and help to get the job done.

Preparation

You will need to decide early on, whether to make the move yourself or hire a professional moving company. Many factors may influence your decision—the distance you must travel, the time you are willing to devote to the move and the amount of money you are willing to spend—so you will need to assess the situation and decide according to your most important priorities.

If you are looking for convenience and time-saving alternatives, you will probably want to take advantage of a moving company's services. You can arrange to have the movers pack all of your belongings while you are free to focus on other details.

However, if your first priority is to keep costs down, moving yourself will be your best option. Before making your decision, call several moving companies for cost estimates for the various services they provide. Be sure to inquire about insurance coverage to protect your belongings against damage and losses, and find out how claims are processed. Many companies will only insure belongings packed by their own workers, so be sure to find out all stipulations and consider these details when making your decision.

Check references to determine the company's record for customer satisfaction.

You also should note that many moving expenses may be tax deductible, if the move is job related. However, there are special limitations on the amount you can deduct. Contact your accountant or the Internal Revenue Service for more information.

If you are doing your own packing, you will need to make special preparations in advance for pets, house plants and household appliances that you plan to take to your new home. Moving companies are not allowed to handle pets, so you'll have to make other arrangements. For long-distance moves, transporting your pets by air is the fastest and most convenient method. Most airline personnel are familiar with the care and handling requirements of live animals. If you decide to take your pets with you in your car, make sure to bring the proper supplies and confirm ahead of time that pets are allowed at planned overnight stops.

Unless you are moving only a short distance from your previous home, give your house plants to friends and neighbors, and replace them once you are settled. Many states have restrictions on the transport of plants across state, county or city boundaries, and some even prohibit certain varieties. Moreover, house plants generally don't travel well.

If you plan to take any household appliances to your new home, they will require servicing before your move. Drain the water from refrigerator and washing machine hoses, and the gasoline from garden equipment. Thoroughly clean and dry each item and securely fasten all moveable parts.

Packing

Well-organized packing is the key to ensuring safe arrival of your belongings at your new home. If you plan to pack your own belongings, keep the following helpful tips in mind. Begin by stocking up on the essential supplies: various sizes of sturdy boxes with lids, paper and bubble-pack for wrapping and cushioning, wide tape to seal the boxes, waterproof markers and labels to identify each carton, and a notebook to record inventory.

Make sure you use the right size box for its contents, and plenty of cushioning to absorb shock. Limit the weight of each box to approximately 50 pounds. Wrap delicate items individually in plain paper. Never use printed newspaper—the ink might damage your belongings. Clearly identify the contents and the room in which they belong on the side of each box. If you are being moved professionally, include your name and new address on the boxes as well. Number each box and keep a detailed inventory of its contents to facilitate unpacking and to help account for each item upon arrival.

Pack a few boxes of things you'll need when you first arrive at your new home and mark them "Unpack First." Such necessities might include basic tools, cleaning supplies, towels, toilet paper, light bulbs, first-aid kit, bed linens, paper plates, essential pet supplies, eating utensils, snacks, easy meals, and a pan for heating water.

Prepare an ice chest filled with drinks and snacks. Take one final walk-through, checking all closets and cupboards. Post your new address in a prominent location as an aid to the next resident in answering questions and in forwarding your mail. Turn off all of the lights, and lock all windows and doors.

If you are using the services of a professional moving company, be on time to accept delivery at our new home. Direct the movers as they unload boxes and furniture and check off your inventory list. Make the beds for a good night's sleep—you deserve it!

With careful preparation and planning, your move can be hassle-free and an enjoyable new adventure for your family.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

Your Week Ahead Horoscope

Forecast For: October 1 - 7, 1995

ARIES	A fast-paced week will keep you on your toes. Expect to be exhausted by this weekend. Chill out on Saturday.
March 21-April 19	You are apt to find yourself in the middle of a violent disagreement. Referee as needed, but watch for hidden punches.
TAURUS	Your goals may seem farther away now than ever before. Don't jump overboard, your ship will come in.
April 20 - May 20	Rely on your faith to see you through troubled waters. There will come a time when that is all you will have.
GEMINI	Your usual calm demeanor will be put to the test at work. Don't be goaded into saying or doing something out of character.
May 21 - June 20	Identify problems quickly and decide on a solution. Too much dilly-dallying will only make matters worse.
CANCER	Social obligation must be fulfilled. Try not to be ill at ease. Your charm and charisma will win them over.
June 21 - July 22	Give credit where it is due. Share your bounty with those who helped you achieve it. Be the hero.
LEO	Plan a quick weekend get-a-way and get away! You deserve a break after these last few months.
July 23 - Aug 22	You can bend, but you won't break. Give in to the wishes of a loved one. You need not always have your way.
VIRGO	Romantic partner says good-bye. Don't cry over what might have been. There will be others.
Aug 23 - Sept 22	The urge to splurge must be curtailed. Save your hard-earned cash for something really important to you.

TERRIER MIX NEEDS A HOME--This male terrier mix is a very friendly dog. He likes children and appears to be housebroken. If you would like to give him a home, or any of the other animals at the shelter, stop by the Animal Shelter of Crawford County, or give them a call at 348-4117.

PET CARE TIPS

It is a myth that cats are aloof, independent animals that don't want a lot of attention from humans, says the Humane Society of the United States. They crave human companionship and establish loving bonds with their human families. An owner who tosses the cat outdoors or spends little time with him will never know the rewarding and special relationship that comes from making a cat a true member of the family.

A LOOK AT OUR PAST FROM THE PAGES OF THE AVALANCHE

23 years ago Sept. 28, 1972

The Kirtland Community College Aviation Maintenance Technician School was awarded Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) approval and certification in a short ceremony at the facility in Grayling last week. RSVP HAPPENINGS

By Gloria Mologianes

It is with a heavy heart that I write this article this week. I have news that is not the happiest I've ever written, but what we feel is the best for our program. We have found it necessary to close our satellite office in Houghton Lake. We find that it just is too costly to maintain that office for the amount of productivity that results from having the office there.

We want to reassure everyone that this will by no means affect the services provided by volunteers in Roscommon County. We will do our utmost to provide the best services possible to both the volunteers and the stations in that county, from our Grayling office.

If for any reason you feel that you have a problem concerning RSVP, from either county, contact us at (517) 348-4341. We will do our best to get things straightened out for you.

BITS OF TALK

By Fay Bovee

Carlene Dane joined her sister, Anne Marie Church, in New Jersey, and they flew to London to spend a couple of weeks. Anne Marie has just returned from her European singing tour.

The name "Grayling" has made its way to North Carolina, where Katherine "Kitty" Funck Lorensen and Michael D. Lowe of Matthews, North Carolina, have begun a new company called "Grayling Poly/Systems" and the company logo features a fish. Michael has been in the building trade for many years. This is a new and innovative polystyrene forms building system. It has been used across the country in both commercial and residential construction for over 15 years.

The polystyrene forms system was featuring in the Feb. 1995 issue of Popular Mechanics.

It is a system of polystyrene forms tied together with reinforcing bars and filled with concrete, and all conventional methods

inside and outside finishing can be used with it.

Irene Morrison and John Gill were married in Indianapolis, Indiana, on Friday, Sept. 15. The couple is employed there and will be making their home there. Irene is the daughter of Forrest and Jennie Annis.

Crawford County is estimated to have grown by 9.2 percent since the 1990 census, giving the county a population of approximately 13,400.

In Northeast Michigan, only Otsego County, with an 11.9 percent increase, grew faster than Crawford.

Otsego tied with Newaygo County as the second fastest growing county in Michigan.
